Athens, having been inhabited since the Neolithic age, is considered Europe’s historical capital. During its long, everlasting and fascinating history the city reached its zenith in the 5th century B.C (the “Golden Age of Pericles”), when its values and civilisation acquired a universal significance and glory. Political thought, theatre, the arts, philosophy, science, architecture, among other forms of intellectual thought, reached an epic acme, in a period of intellectual consummation unique in world history.

Therefore, Athens constituted the cradle of western civilisation. A host of Greek words and ideas, such as democracy, harmony, music, mathematics, art, gastronomy, architecture, logic, Eros, euphoria and many others, enriched a multitude of languages, and inspired civilisations.

Over the years, a multitude of conquerors occupied the city and erected splendid monuments of great significance, thus creating a rare historical palimpsest.

Driven by the echo of its classical past, in 1834 the city became the capital of the modern Greek state. During the two centuries that elapsed however, it developed into an attractive, modern metropolis with unrivalled charm and great interest.

Today, it offers visitors a unique experience. A “journey” in its 6,000-year history, including the chance to see renowned monuments and masterpieces of art of the antiquity and the Middle Ages, and the architectural heritage of the 19th and 20th centuries. You get an uplifting, embracing feeling in the brilliant light of the attic sky, surveying the charming landscape in the environs of the city (the indented coastline, beaches and mountains), and enjoying the modern infrastructure of the city and unique verve of the Athenians.

Year-round visitors are fascinated by Athens, one of the most attractive and charming capitals of Europe.
The Olympieion includes the sanctuary (temple) of Olympian Zeus, Roman baths, classical houses as well as a section of the ancient city’s fortification wall. According to the geographer Pausanias, the temple of Olympian Zeus was founded by Deukalionas, a mythical ancestor of the Greeks. In the age of tyranny, circa 515 BC, Peisistratos the younger grandson of the tyrant Peisistratos, attempted to replace the old temple with a new, more impressive temple. The tyranny, however, was abolished and construction work was terminated. The construction of the new temple was later assigned to the Roman architect Decimus Cossutius by the king of Syria Antiochus IV Epiphanes. Antiochus died in 163 BC and the construction of the temple was once again abandoned. The structure did not have a roof and pediment. The construction of the temple, which ranks among the biggest in antiquity, was completed in 131 AD by the Roman Emperor Hadrian. It is of Corinthian order (110m in length and approximately 44m in width), three rows of eight columns at the narrow sides and two rows of twenty columns at its long sides. Inside the temple there was a gold and ivory statue of Zeus which does not exist today.

- Ilissos Valley. The surviving section of the Ilissos river valley (right behind the temple of Olympian Zeus) is worth a visit. In antiquity the Ilissos river was known as the sacred river of the Muses. Scattered remains of ancient sanctuaries are located in the valley. You will find nearby the rock of the Kalliroi spring – which was famous in antiquity – and the church of Ayia Fotini, which was built in 1872 at the site of an ancient temple, on the foundation of the sacred sanctuary of Ekati. You will find nearby, the preserved monuments of the Classical, Roman, and Byzantine age, among others, (the Temple of Apollo Delphinios, the Temple of Cronos and Rhea, a Byzantine quarter with workshops, and Leonidis Church).

2 HADRIAN’S ARCH

Following the construction of the temple of Zeus, the Athenians, in 131 AD, in honour of Emperor Hadrian, built an arch on the northwestern perimeter of the temple. The monument is 18m tall and 13m wide while the arch, built of Pentelic marble, bears two inscriptions on the architrave over the arch. One inscription, facing the Acropolis and the old town (facing west), says: “This is Athens, the city of Theseus.” The other inscription, facing the sanctuary and an extension of Athens constructed by Hadrian, (facing east), says: “This is the city of Hadrian, not Theseus.”

3 DIONYSIOU AREOPAGITOU STR

Dionysiou Areopagitou Str is one of the most impressive streets of Athens, offering an extraordinary view of the southern slope of the Acropolis, where some of the city’s most significant monuments stand, and the Parthenon. Most of the buildings on one side of the road facing south were constructed in the late 19th century and the early 20th century in the neoclassical or modernist style, reflecting the bourgeois style of the street.

4 THE ANCIENT THEATRE OF DIONYSOS

Directions: Enter the archaeological area on the southern slope of the Acropolis (entrance at Dionysiou Areopagitou Str), and descend. On the slope to your right is the most ancient theatre of the world, the Theatre of Dionysos. In this theatre, the most famous ancient Greek poets, Aeschylus, and Herodotus, presented their plays.
Aristophanes, Euripides, and Sophocles saw premiere performances of their plays in the 5th century BC. The auditorium and the proscenium were made of wood. In the 4th century BC they were reconstructed using marble. Sections of the stone auditorium survive. According to experts, the theatre had a capacity of 17,000. On the slope overlooking the theatre, sculpted on the rock of the Acropolis, is the choregic Monument of Thasyllus (319 BC) and two choregic Corinthian columns.

Above the theatre is the Stoa of Eumenes, which was built by the King of Pergamum, Eumenes II in the 2nd century BC. The arch provided shelter to theatregoers in case of bad weather or shade from the sun. Nearby are the ruins of the Asklepeion of Athens, which was built in 429 BC, following the plague, which decimated the population.

The Odeion of Herodes Atticus was built in 161 AD by the wealthy Herodes Tiberius Claudius Atticus, a teacher and philosopher, who inherited a fortune from his father. Herodes Atticus constructed the covered Odeion in memory of his wife Regilla. Ancient Greeks organised events in the Odeion. Nowadays, the 5,000-seat theatre is a venue for concerts of the Athens Festival (page 136). You may enjoy the beauty and charm of the Odeion in a morning stroll on the way to the Acropolis.

The Acropolis is the symbol of Athens, the sacred rock, linking the fabulous ancient civilisation with the modern city.

The monuments on the Sacred Rock date back to the prehistoric era and antiquity. The grandeur and beauty of the Sacred Rock attract Greek and foreign visitors. A visit to the Acropolis is a unique experience.
THE SIGHTS:

7.1 > THE PROPYLAE

adorned with monuments, is the grand entrance of the Acropolis. The Propylaea, built by Pericles in 437-432 BC, were the work of the famous Athenian architect, Mnesicles. They were incorporated in the wall which has been preserved until today and was built during the first half of the 5th century B.C., in place of the older destroyed Cyclopean wall. Before reaching the Propylaea, you will pass through the Beulé gate, part of the Roman fortifications of the Acropolis. Right after that you will encounter a 13 m. high pedestal, known as the "monument of Agrippa", on which the Athenians in 27 B.C. erected a statue of the Roman Marcus Agrippa, benefactor of the city. south of the Propylaea, was built circa 420 BC in commemoration of the victory of the Greeks against the Persians. The temple was the work of the architect Kalikrates. The site was the location of a sanctuary in the prehistoric era. To the left of the temple you will find the Erechtheion. Facing the temple is the Parthenon.

7.2 > THE TEMPLE OF THE ATHENA VICTORY (Wingless Victory)

7.3 > THE PARTHENON

is an architectural masterpiece of great renown. You will appreciate its splendour if you visit, and learn about the history and the secrets of the construction of the Parthenon. This unique temple, dedicated to the goddess Athena, was built of Pentelic marble. The Parthenon of the classical era was built on the remains of the monumental earlier Parthenon, an archaic temple built in the late 6th century BC.

11. The western side of the tower of the Temple of Athena Victory. In the lower section is a small sanctuary shaped as a double niche.
The architects of the classical temple, which was constructed and decorated from 447-432BC (in the golden century of Pericles), were Iktinos and Kallikrates. It is a Doric peripteral temple with 8 columns on the front and the back and 17 columns on each side. In the Parthenon stood the chryselephantine statue of Athena, the work of the famous sculptor Pheidias, who was also in charge of the overall construction. The statue was the destination of the great procession of the Panathenaea, depicted on the frieze of the temple.

The chryselephantine statue of Athena:
According to mythology, the name of the city is connected with a rivalry between Poseidon and Athena for the guardianship of the city. Poseidon offered the Athenians a horse, while Athena, struck the rock of the Acropolis with her spear, and an olive tree sprouted. The Athenians preferred the olive tree, which symbolised peace and prosperity. The city was named after Athena. The 12-metre high statue stood in the Parthenon. The interior of the statue was made of wood, while the nude parts were made of ivory. The removable robe and the helmet were coated with gold plating. The statue, which represented the goddess Athena bearing arms, and on her right hand a 2-metre high ivory statue of victory, was lost in the early Byzantine era. Ancient sources, and the analytical descriptions of Pausanias (2nd century AD), testify to the existence of the statue. Archaeologists have derived information about the statue from copies. The most famous copy is the Varvakeios Athena.

Take note of the following:
Please be patient when you ascend the holy rock. You will be rewarded by the spectacular view at the top.
- You will pass through the Propylaea before you arrive at the Parthenon.
- The view from the temple of the Athena Victory is spectacular.
- The slight bulge of the columns of the Parthenon gives the impression that they are bending under the weight of the roof.
- The secret of the harmony of the Parthenon is that there is not a straight line in the design. Don’t be deceived by the optical illusion of the columns, which appear to bulge.
- The Erechtheion is a unique temple constructed according to the style of ancient Athens. It is constructed on two levels. It is asymmetrical and has two balconies, which are not thematically connected to each other. The small balcony on the south side is better known, mainly due to the six Caryatids that support the roof. The differences between the sections of the temple may be due to the fact that the various parts are dedicated to various gods. The eastern section was dedicated to Athena Poliaida, and the western section to Poseidon Erechtheus.

The Erechtheion was built from 420-406 BC at the most holy site of the Acropolis, where goddess Athena planted the olive tree, her sacred symbol. The tree was later destroyed by Persian invaders. According to mythology, following the expulsion of the Persians, the tree miraculously sprouted again.

Caryatids:
The figures of the maidens supporting the roof of the southern balcony of the temple are copies. Five of the six Maidens that once adorned the temple are displayed in the Acropolis Museum, while the sixth is displayed in the British Museum.

8 THE AREIOS PAGOS

The Areios Pagos, venerated in antiquity, is the most ancient law court of the world. It was the seat of the first aristocratic assembly of ancient Athens. The assembly gradually lost political influence and in the latter half of the 5th century, it retained solely its function as a court, mostly hearing murder cases. The Oresteia describes the trial at this court of Orestes for the murder of his mother Clytemnesstra, and her lover Aegisthus. Apostle Paul spoke to the Athenians at the Areios Pagos in 51 AD. A bronze plaque on the base of the hill commemorates his sermons.

9 PHILOPAPPOU HILL

Well worth a visit any time of the year. A walk at Philopappou Hill is a fascinating experience: you will find here a magnificent park, important monuments such as the alleged “Prisons of Socrates,” the “Tombs of Kimon,” the ancient Koilis street, which was a mercantile boulevard with shops and houses, the “Ireo Moussaiou,” the Philopappus Monument and the spectacular view of the Parthenon and the Acropolis.

10 THE PNYX

The Pnyx is situated between the Hill of the Muses (the location of Philopappus’ Monument) and the Hill of the Nymphs. (the location of the Sanctuary of the Nymphs and the National Observatory, page 47). The semicircular square was after 6th century BC the location of the assembly of the people of Athens. They gathered here to hear orators speak from a rock platform in the centre of the Pnyx, and participate in the democratic polity. The assembly is thought to have a capacity of 10,000.

11 THE ANCIENT AGORA

The archaeological area of the ancient Agora is located on the foothills of the Acropolis, near metro stop “Thission.” In antiquity, the Agora was not solely a commercial centre. It was also an important political, cultural and religious centre. In the area of the agora were located administrative buildings, temples, public services and courts. The Athenians gathered here every day to buy and sell their goods, learn the current news, criticise the government, exchange

THE SIGHTS:

• Philopappus Monument was built by Athenians in the 2nd century BC in honour of the benefactor, ruler of Syria, Gaius Julius Antiochus. Gaius Julius was also known as Philopappus, which roughly translated means “one who loves his grandfather.” His grandfather was the last King of Kommagene Antiochus IV.

• Cobbled road. In the 1950’s the Greek architect D. Pikionis developed the design of the area encompassing the Prolylaea of the Acropolis and Philopappou Hill. Take note of the hand made cobbled roads leading to the monuments, the church of Ayios Demetrios Loumbardiaris (page 25) and the refreshment room. The area has been designated Scheduled and Protected Monument of the Global Cultural Heritage.
ideas, or engage in discussion. The area was settled in the Neolithic age. The monuments located there were built in various historical periods: from the classical age to the 11th century AD. The church of Ayioi Apostoloi was built in the 11th century AD (page 24).

11.1 Thission (Theseion) - Temple of Hephaistos. The Thission was dedicated to Hephaistos and Athena, and not Theseus. It is located in the western perimeter of the Agora. It is the best-preserved temple of antiquity. It was built in 460-415 BC. In the temple stood the statues of Hephaistos and Athena, thought to have been sculpted by Alkamenes.

11.2 The monument of the Eponymous Heroes. Here stood the statues of the ten heroes of Attica (4th century BC). The ten clans of Attica were named after the heroes. Public announcements were displayed on the pedestal of these statues.

11.3 Poikile Stoa. It is thought that the Poikile Stoa derived its name from the variety of the colours and themes of its frescoes. The name "Poikile" (poikile means diverse) leads us to the supposition that the frescoes here were painted in a variety of colours and themes. Here Zinon taught Stoic philosophy, which was named after the Poikile Stoa (460 BC).

11.4 The Stoa of Attalus. The Stoa of Attalus, a two-floor building, was donated by the King of Pergamum Attalus II (159-138 BC) to the city of Athens. It is thought to have been a kind of ancient commercial centre with 21 shops on each floor. The collection of the Museum displays everyday objects, which were unearthed in excavations in the ancient Agora. Visitors may get an idea of everyday life in ancient Athens.

11.5 The Basileios Stoa. The Basileios Stoa, constructed circa 500 BC, is located on the foothills of the Theseion. It was the seat of the Archon Vasileus and the council of the Areios Pagos.

11.6 Odeion of Agrippa. Built by Agrippa in 15 BC. It could seat 1,000 spectators and had a two-storeyed portico. It was destroyed in 267 AD by the Herulians and in 400 AD the Gymnasium was built in its place. On the north side four large statues of Giants and Tritons, salvaged from the Odeion, were placed on pedestals. Three of these statues still exist.
THE ROMAN AGORA

The Roman Agora (in the Plaka area) was an architectural complex, built between 19 and 11 B.C., consisting of a large rectangular court surrounded by colonnades (stoas). Behind the stoas were various shops.

- Gate of Athena Archegetis. Located at the west side of the area. A monumental gateway with four Doric columns and a pediment of Pentelic marble, preserved in excellent condition.

- Kyrristus’ Clock – Tower of the Winds. On the eastern side of the Roman Agora stands an octagonal monument. The Clock of Andronicus Kyrristus, constructed in the 1st century BC, was a hydraulic clock. On each face of the clock can be seen bas-reliefs of the eight winds. The monument has taken its name “Winds” from the depictions.

- Vespasianes (public lavatories). Rectangular building with anteroom and square room with benches with holes in them on all four sides and a sewage canal underneath (1st century A.D.), named after Roman emperor Vespasianus.

• Fetihie Mosque. (page 27)

HADRIAN’S LIBRARY

It is situated north of the Roman Agora (the entrance is on 3 Areos St). It is a rectangular building measuring 122m x 82m with a Corinthian propylon on the west side. It was built by Roman emperor Hadrian in 132 A.D. It formed a colonnade with specific areas used for the storage of papyruses and books, lecture halls etc. There was a courtyard in the center. In this courtyard an Early Christian Church was built during the 5th century A.D., which was later destroyed and replaced by a 7th century three-aisled and an 11th century single-aisled basilica.

THE SIGHTS:

- Gate of Athena Archegetis. Located at the west side of the area. A monumental gateway with four Doric columns and a pediment of Pentelic marble, preserved in excellent condition.

- Kyrristus’ Clock – Tower of the Winds. On the eastern side of the Roman Agora stands an octagonal monument. The Clock of Andronicus Kyrristus, constructed in the 1st century BC, was a hydraulic clock. On each face of the clock can be seen bas-reliefs of the eight winds. The monument has taken its name “Winds” from the depictions.

- Vespasianes (public lavatories). Rectangular building with anteroom and square room with benches with holes in them on all four sides and a sewage canal underneath (1st century A.D.), named after Roman emperor Vespasianus.

- Fetihie Mosque. (page 27)

THE KERAMEIKOS

The ancient Kerameikos was located in the northwestern outskirts of Athens. It was partly enclosed by, and partly beyond, the walls that divide the area of the excavation. In the centre of the archaeological site are the two best known arches of ancient Athens, the Dipylon where the Panathenaic procession would start and the Sacred Arch, where the sacred way would begin and the Eleusinian Mysteries procession would pass through (page 115). In the vicinity of the arches was the most ancient and the biggest cemetery of Attica. Moreover it was the place of burial of citizens who were honoured by the city of Athens. According to the geographer Pausanias, the location was named after Keramos. However, the place was most likely named after the neighbourhood of the kerameoi (potters). (The definition of Kerameikos is something related to ceramics of potters). The neighbourhood of the kerameoi was established on the banks of the river Iridanos. You can see the riverbed in the archaeological area. The ancient Demos of Kerameikos covered a large area. Only part of it has been unearthed in excavations. It is thought that the area of the Kerameikos was bounded by the north-western perimeter of the Agora on one side and the copse that was named after the hero Akademos, on the other side.

- Tombs and steleae (columns).
The Kerameikos is mainly known for its tombs and columns. The copy of the marble bull in the enclosure of the tomb of Dionysus from Kollytos, and the copy of the famous columns of Dexileos and Hegeso (late 5th century BC). If you want to see the original sculpture of the Dexileos tomb stele, as well as other finds of the excavation, please visit the Museum. The tomb stele of Hegeso is displayed in the National Archaeological Museum (page 87).

- The Kerameikos Museum. Is located in the archaeological site of Kerameikos. It displays very significant finds of the excavation of Kerameikos, including funeral gifts found in tombs and sculptures adorning tombs of the archaic and classical periods.

- The Public Memorial.
A section of the ancient cemetery, including the tombs of public figures and a multitude of the graves of soldiers fallen in battle, was recently excavated near the archaeological area of Kerameikos (at 35, Salaminas Str).

- The Akademia Platonos (Plato’s Academy).
The area was inhabited in the prehistoric age (in the 6th century BC one of the three famous Gymnasia of Athens was founded here). It is named after the hero Akademos, or Ekaemos. However, it is known after the famous philosophical school founded by Plato (neighbourhood Akademia Platonos) in 387 BC. The school was a focal point of the prestigious Neoplatonist philosophers. Today, the archaeological site is developing within a park. It occupies a surface of approximately 37 acres, between Athinon Avenue and Lenorman Avenue (access from the streets Monastirioti, Faonos and Drakondos).

Byzantine Monuments in Athens

The 11th and the 12th centuries are thought to be the Golden Age of Athens’ Byzantine art. Most of the better known and more important Byzantine churches of Athens were built in these two centuries as part of a Christian reconstruction following the campaigns of Emperor Basil II in the Balkans. Some of the better-known monasteries were also founded in the same period in the suburbs of Athens.

The Kapnikarea is a cruciform, domed Byzantine church with a dome dedicated to the Presentation of the Virgin Mary. The original building was constructed in the 11th century. Construction was completed in the 13th century. It has had various names: Camoucharea, Chrysocamouchariotissa, Panayia tis Vasilopoulas (Virgin of the Kings daughter). In 1834, the year of the construction of Ermou Str, the authorities considered plans to relocate the church, or demolish it, since it was located in the middle of Ermou Str, and was a hindrance to traffic. However, thanks to the intervention of Ludwig of Bavaria, father of King Otto, and Neofytos Metaxas, Bishop of Talantio and Bishop of Athens, the church was preserved at the present location.

3 Ayios Nikolaos Rangavas (Plaka)

This charming church is located near the Anafiotika area of Plaka. The church was built in the 11th century. It was part of the Palace of the Rangavas family. Michael I, Emperor of Byzantium, was descended from this family. The area around the church was formerly called Rangavas.

2 Kapnikarea (Ermou Str)

The Kapnikarea is a cruciform, domed Byzantine church with a dome dedicated to the Presentation of the Virgin Mary. The original building was constructed in the 11th century. Construction was completed in the 13th century. It has had various names: Camoucharea, Chrysocamouchariotissa, Panayia tis Vasilopoulas (Virgin of the Kings daughter). In 1834, the year of the construction of Ermou Str, the authorities considered plans to relocate the church, or demolish it, since it was located in the middle of Ermou Str, and was a hindrance to traffic. However, thanks to the intervention of Ludwig of Bavaria, father of King Otto, and Neofytos Metaxas, Bishop of Talantio and Bishop of Athens, the church was preserved at the present location.

1 The Old Metropolis (Cathedral) (Mitropoleos Square)

This charming church is located near the new Cathedral. It was built in the late 12th century. It is dedicated to Gorgoe-pikoos Panayia (the Virgin Mary) and Ayios Eleftherios. Ancient and Byzantine bas-reliefs were used for the construction of the church. In the facade is an ancient frieze, taken from a monument of the 4th century B.C. depicting official attic festivals. The church was the official Episcopal Seat of Athens following the expulsion of the bishops from the Parthenon by the Franks and later the Turks. From 1839 to 1842 it was used as a library. The new Metropolis nearby was built from 1842 and 1862 as the cathedral of Athens. It is a domed church built in the neobyzantine and neoclassical style.
7 MeToCHI PAnaYIOu TAFoU (AnafoTIka)

It is located at Erechtheos Str. It is a small monastery belonging to the Holy Sepulchre of Jerusalem. The church of the monastery, Ayios Anargiroi was built in the 17th century.

8 PAnaYIA CHRYS- SOKASTRIOTISSA (AnafoTIka)

One of several churches in Anafiotika. According to popular belief, the miraculous icon of the church protects believers in difficult circumstances.

9 SoTIRA LYTOKIMOU - RUSSIAN CHURCH (Filellinon Str)

Is the biggest medieval building of Athens. Built in 1031, it was part of a Roman Catholic monastery that closed in 1701. In the 1850’s the building was renovated by Tsar Alexander II who donated a bell-tower. Sotira Lykodimou is the Russian Orthodox Church of Athens.

10 AYIOI APOSTOLOI TOU SOLAKI (Ancient Agora)

Is located in the compound of the Ancient Agora excavation. It is one of the oldest churches of Athens (1000-1025 AD). It was constructed on the ruins of a Roman nymphaeum of the 2nd century. In the 1950’s, following a renovation, it was restored to its original form. Many post-Byzantine frescoes of the church of Ayios Spyridonas, which has been demolished, were transported to Ayioi Apostoloi.

11 PANTANASSA (Monastiraki Square)

It is a three-aisled basilica built in the 10th century. The church belonged to the monastery of Koimesis Theotokou from which the district’s name is derived (Monastiraki). In the older days it was a dependency of the Kaisariani Monastery (page 105).

12 AYIOS DEMETRIOS LOUMBARDIARIS (Philopappou hill)

Is a beautiful basilica of the 16th century, with remarkable frescoes. According to prevailing tradition its name (Loumbardiaris or Bombardiaris) was derived from an incident that occurred in the 17th century when the Christians believed that Saint Demetrios protected them from a great Turkish cannon (Loumbarda) located there.

13 AYIOI ASOMATOI (Thissio)

A cruciform church built in the 12th century, it was named after a Roman column, preserved in the interior. Ayios Ioannis o Vaptistis was thought to be a healer of all sicknesses of the head. Visitors may see on the column offerings to the Saint offered by the faithful expressing gratitude for his help.

14 AYIOS IOANNIS STIN KOLONA (Euripidou Str)

A small chapel built in the 12th century, it was named after a Roman column, preserved in the interior. Ayios Ioannis o Vaptistis was thought to be a healer of all sicknesses of the head. Visitors may see on the column offerings to the Saint offered by the faithful expressing gratitude for his help.

15 SOTIRA LYKODIMOU - RUSSIAN CHURCH (Filellinon Str)

Is the biggest medieval building of Athens. Built in 1031, it was part of a Roman Catholic monastery that closed in 1701. In the 1850’s the building was renovated by Tsar Alexander II who donated a bell-tower. Sotira Lykodimou is the Russian Orthodox Church of Athens.

OTTOMAN MONUMENTS IN ATHENS

Athens was conquered by the Ottomans in 1456 and liberated in 1833. Remarkable buildings of the period have been preserved.

1 MOSQUES

The Tzistarakis Mosque (or Kato Sintrivaniou), located in Monastiraki Square, was built in 1759 by the Turkish voivod Mustafa Agas (or Tzistarakis). Seeking lime for the construction of the Mosque, Tzistarakis removed the 17th column of the Temple of Zeus (page 5). The Mosque has a loggia with four columns and two rows of four windows on each side. Since 1981 it has housed the Museum of Traditional Ceramics. In Athens, there is only one mosque open to the public, the Tzistarakis Mosque. Near the Roman Agora (page 18) is the remarkable Fetihie Mosque, built in 1458 in honour of Mohamed II the Conqueror, on the occasion of his visit to Athens.

2 HAMAM (TURKISH BATHS)

The Old Baths (Hamam Abit Efendi), in Plaka (at Kyrristou 8), built in the 17th century, were a popular meeting place in the Ottoman era. The Old Baths have been renovated and they house the Museum of Cleanliness and Body Embellishment as well as many artistic and cultural events.

3 MUSLIM SEMINARY

The gate of the Muslim seminary, at the crossroads of Aeolou Str and Pelopida Str, is the remains of the building, which was destroyed in a fire in 1911. According to an inscription above the entrance, the seminary was built in 1721 and consisted of a main building, which was a school and mosque, buildings housing the students and teachers (hodjia), kitchen and hygiene areas, and a central court.
The modernist movement

In the early 1930’s, buildings with more than two or three floors - the usual number of floors of buildings at the time - were constructed. These small blocks of flats, which sometimes had six floors, introduced a Greek variety of the international modernist architectural style (Bauhaus, Art Deco). The main characteristic of buildings constructed in this period, (as well as the preceding period), are the semicircular ledges, and the facades. A multitude of these buildings are thought to be important monuments exemplifying the global history of the modernist style.

The post-war era (1950-2000)

In the post-war era, the population of Athens and demand for housing rapidly increased. In the 1950’s and the early 1960’s, buildings with marble facades, parapets, and imposing entrances were in vogue. From 1960-1975 (the development era) the mass construction of dull modern buildings was in vogue, altering the physiognomy of the new neighbourhoods. Quality buildings were also constructed in this era. In the past few decades, following a period of stagnation, Athens has acquired important new (predominantly public) buildings, giving the city a new splendour, and upgrading depressed areas.

Eclecticism

In the late 19th century the tradition of neoclassicism was enriched by the romantic aesthetic, usually following the French style. Although Athenian classicism remained the predominant architectural style, public and private buildings were constructed in this period in a breezy style, influenced by the decorative style in vogue in Western Europe.

Art Nouveau

This radical movement was not established as a major architectural trend in Athens. However, after 1920, Greek bourgeois from Smyrna, Egypt, and Constantinople constructed residences following the art nouveau style. The few, impressive art nouveau buildings contrasted with the uniform neoclassical and eclectic architecture prevailing in Athens.

Neoclassicism

was from 1834 to the 1920’s the predominant architectural style of the small city – which was situated in what is today the historical centre. The style of neoclassicism, which was in vogue in Western Europe, was a product of the romantic fascination with antiquity. It was introduced by German architects who came to Greece in the early 1830’s to plan Athens. In the interwar era and especially after 1955, a number of Athens’ neoclassical buildings were torn down. However, in many areas of the historical centre, the charming, neoclassical style has been preserved.

HISTORIC CENTRE (1)

1. PLAKA

Plaka, also known as the “neighbourhood of the gods,” is the oldest neighbourhood of Athens. Walking on its paved narrow streets you get the feeling that you are traveling back in time. The origin of the name of the neighbourhood is unknown, although theories abound. According to popular belief, Plaka was named after a slab of stone that was found near the church of Ayios Georgios Alexandrias, in the vicinity of the theatre of Dionysos. The beautiful neoclassical style colour of the houses, the architecture, the well-kept gardens, and the beauty and atmosphere of the neighbourhood are enchanting. In Plaka the air you breathe is different; it is lighter, cleaner, and fragrant, like a gift of the gods. When you visit Plaka you should bring a map, because you might get lost in the labyrinth of narrow streets and alleys. In Adrianou Street, the central street of the neighbourhood, as in other streets in the area, you will find shops selling traditional products, souvenirs, Greek folk art and handicrafts, etc.

1.1 FILOMOUSOU ETAIREIAS SQUARE

The central square of the neighbourhood, was named after the Filomousos Etairia (The Society of the Friends of the Muses, in other words, the nine gods of the Arts), which was founded in 1813. The purpose of the Society was the promotion of Greek studies and the preservation of the archaeological treasures of Athens. At the square, located at the crossroads of Kladathinaion Str, Farmaki Str, Olympiou Dios Str and Angelou Geronda Str, are a multitude of cafes, restaurants, clubs with live music and souvenir shops.

1.2 THE CHILDREN’S MUSEUM

Located at Kidathinaion Str is a wonderful place for children. In the attic is a reconstructed room with old furniture, a radio, and theatre in the style of old Athenian homes, named “granddad and grandmother’s room,” where children may dress with period dresses. The Museum houses among others, an exhibition of paintings by children, old toys, a fairground and a library. If you have children, be sure to visit the Children’s Museum. Its, also, worth seeing the neighbouring Museum of Greek Children’s Art (9, Kodrou str.), which, among other things, exhibits in its premises paintings and three dimensional artworks by children up to 14 years old from all over Greece, which are renewed on a regular basis.

1.3 LYSIKRATES MONUMENT

In ancient Athens, theatrical performances held at the the-and Alexandra Kanellopoulos to the Greek state. It is housed in the neoclassical mansion of the Mihalea family. The Kanellopoulos collection consists of archaeological finds and works of art from the prehistoric era to modern times.

THE ROMAN AGORA

BYZANTINE CHURCHES

OTTOMAN MONUMENTS

MONASTIRAKI

A distinctive “old” Athens area, with narrow, irregularly criss-crossing streets, and small buildings, characteristic of Ottoman and to some extent Byzantine urban planning. On the outdoor stands of street sellers, or the small shops on the central roads (Adrianou Str, Pandrosou Str, Ifaistou Str, Thiseiou Str, Ayiou Filippou Str, Astigos Str and Ermou Str) you can find anything, such as shoes, clothes, old and new furniture, old books and magazines, souvenirs, jewellery, hats, bronze objects, new and used records and CDs and traditional Greek instruments (bouzouki, touberleki). Shopping or walking in Monastiraki is an unforgettable experience. You will be stunned by the variety and quality of things you can buy in the market.

MONASTIRAKI SQUARE

Historic Square, fully renovated, paved with colourful stones and paving blocks forming a multi-coloured mosaic. In the background, one can see the Acropolis Rock (page 9) and the Plaka (page 30). In this magnificent square, significant monuments from many different historic eras coexist. Such monumental sites are the Tzistarakis mosque (page 27), Hadrian’s library (page 19), the Byzantine church of Pantanassa (page 25). Of particular interest also is the renovated neoclassical metro station - one of the oldest of the metro network (1895).

Next to the platforms, in a specially formed space of 300sq.m. one can see the encased with stones, bed and banks of Iridanos river, dating from antiquity. It is visible even from the square, through the archaeological excavation pit.

[2.2] AVISSINIAS SQUARE (Giousouroum) is the central square of Monastiraki. Here you will find a wide range of rare furniture, antiques and the copies of antiques, and a variety of used items. Moreover, you will find old wardrobes, bookcases, frames, mirrors, antique office tables, tables, gramophone records and musical instruments. Come early if you want to shop. Noon is the best time to come if you want to take a look around. You can have a glass of Greek wine or ouzo with Greek snacks - called mezedes - in one of the small shops of the square, and observe the bustle of the bazaar.

[2.3] ADRIANOU STR

A distinctive Athens street, connects Hadrian’s library with the “Theseio” metro stop. In the neoclassical one-floor or two-floor buildings are shops with traditional items, and antique shops. Street-sellers sell their ware here Sundays. You will find here cafes and small fashionable restaurants with a unique view of the archaeological area of the Ancient Agora (page 15).

[3] THE OLD COMMERCIAL CENTRE

The area encompassed by Mitropoleos Str, Athinas Str and Stadiou Str is the heart of the historic centre of Athens, and the old commercial area. In the area, with the smaller or larger labyrinthine streets, are more than 2,500 shops selling a wide range of products. Pedestrian zones have been established. The historic commercial centre is a rather quiet area, with a multitude of cafes, small bars and modern restaurants.

[3.1] MITROPOLEOS STR

[3.2] ERMOU STR

The street is named after the god Hermes – the protector of trade. Ermou Str was one of the first streets paved by Kleanthis and Schaubert. More than 60 years, from the late 19th century to the 1960’s, it was a centre of women’s fashion. It is one of the best areas for shopping in the capital. You will find a variety of silver, among others, candle holders, bowls, vases and jewellery, often hand-made goods produced in Greece, in shops at Lekka Str, which connects Perikleous Str and Kolokotroni Str, and the nearby arcades. Also, in the picturesque Evangelistrias and Ayiou Markou Streets, there are many shops selling clothing and shoes at very reasonable prices.

In the section of Ermou Str closest to Syntagma Square, (up to Athinas Str) you will find the Kapnikarea church. In the section of Ermou Str closest to Pireaus Str (from Thisieo to Pireaus Str) you will find the Archaeological site of Keramikos (page 19).

[3.3] ATHINAS STR

A central commercial road connecting Omonia Square (page 69) with Monastiraki Square (page 33). Designed in perspective of the Acropolis Rock, it was one of the first main roads constructed in modern Athens and has a multitude of important architectural examples of 19th century and early 20th century styles. Noisy and busy most of the time, Athens Varvakeios Municipal (Central) Market is a rectangular building (1886) with a large covered court. There are a total of 73 food stalls (meat market, fish market, vegetable market and groceries) in the interior and exterior sections. The market is covered with a glass and metal roof and has symmetrical windows. You will find here small restaurants (eating-houses) with fresh food, attracting Athenians especially after midnight. There is a small grove on the square (Varvakeios Square) across the street.

EVRIPIDOU STR a charming street with an oriental atmosphere, connects Koumoundouros Square (page 71) with Klaftmonos Square (page 38). You will find here a multitude of shops selling spices, sweets, nuts, coffee, and traditional oriental products.

AIOLOU STR A pedestrian zone has been established in a large section of the Aiolou Str, which connects Panepistimiou Str with the Roman Market (Plaka). At the crossroads of Aiolou Str and Sophocleous Str is the newly constructed Administration Building of the National Bank of Greece (2002), one of the most important modern architectural sights of Athens. The building was designed by Greek architects, with the collaboration of the famous architect M. Botta. On the ground floor you will find a restored section of the ancient Acharnai road. At 10 Sophocleous Str is the old mansion of the Athens Stock Exchange, with a classical style façade with four Dorian columns. As you head towards Plaka you will see two marvellous churches, which are well worth a visit: The Panagia Chrysospiliotissa (1863 - at the crossroads of Aiolou Str and Panagia Chryssopiliotissa Str) and Ayia Eirini (1847 - Athinaidos Str) both built by the architect L. Kafantziglou. Ayia Eirini, which was the first Cathedral of Athens, is located at a picturesque square, where one can find a flower market and many small cafes.
3.9 ➤ Stadiou Str
Is a central street – one of the first paved roads of modern Athens. It was built on a river bed. It was formerly called Feidiou Str and Akakiou Str. There was a plan to extend the street to the Panathenaean Stadium – which was never put into action – hence the name Stadiou.

3.10 ➤ National Printers Building
Connects Sarantoza Str and Arsaki Str. One of the first public mansions raised in the modern city (1834), it is built in the neoclassical style. Before 1905, it housed the “National Printers.”

3.11 ➤ Klafthmonos Square
Is a spacious square with interesting buildings (among others, The Museum of the City of Athens page 98), the former Ministry of Merchant Marine, the Ministry of Internal Affairs, the Byzantine church of Ayioi Theodori page 25) and a multitude of cafes. An impressionist bronze statue representing the “National Reconciliation” (Doropoulos 1988) stands in the centre of the square.

3.12 ➤ “Attikon-Apollon” building
Is an eclectic style mansion. It houses two cinemas, among the oldest of Athens, which have recently been renovated.

3.13 ➤ Karytsi Square
Is a small square, named after the church at its centre. The elegant church (built by L. Kafantzikoglou) was built at the site of an older church where the Athenians in January 1833 selected a deputation to welcome the new king Otto in Nauplion. Opposite the square is the neoclassical style “Parnassos” building.

3.14 ➤ Hellenic Telecommunications Organisation (OTE) Mansion
An exceptional example of modernism in Athens, with elements of older architectural styles, it is the work of the known Greek architect An. Metaxas (1931).

3.15 ➤ Kolokotroni Square
A small square, with the National Historical Museum and the impressive statue of the hero of the Greek Revolution Th. Kolokotronis on horseback (L. Sohos, 1904) at its centre. Opposite the square (Stadiou Str 8) is the dilapidated Doula Residence, one of the oldest buildings of the modern city, the work of Chr. Hansen.

3.16 ➤ National Historical Museum
This impressive neoclassical construction was built during the period 1858-1871 according to the plans of Fr. Boulanger, which were later modified by the Greek architect P. Kalkos. Up until 1935 the building constituted the seat of the Greek Parliament and for this reason it is called Old Parliament. Since 1961 it houses the collections of the National Historical Museum (for the museum collections, page 94).

HISTORIC CENTRE (2)

1. PSYRI
A colourful neoclassical Athens neighbourhood, encompassed by Athinas Str, Ermou Str and Evripidou Str. It is a busy neighbourhood, especially in the night. You will find on its narrow alleys a multitude of cafes, small bars, clubs, restaurants, ouzo-restaurants, and taverns with live Greek music, theatres, galleries, art galleries, and antique shops.

Following the liberation of Greece (1833), veteran freedom fighters and immigrants from the provinces settled in the neighbourhood. They opened cottage industries and workshops, which have given the neighbourhood a distinctive character. In the early 1990s, following a series of construction works, the neighbourhood became a popular nightlife and residential area. The churches in the area are also quite interesting, such as Ayioi Anargyroi, Ayios Demetrios, Ayios Gregorios (Armenian), et al. Iroon square, the central square, is good place for you to start your walk.

2. KERAMEIKOS
Near the archaeological area (page 19) is the historic neighbourhood of Kerameikos. Worth seeing are Ayion Assomaton Str (with the “Museum of Islamic Art”), et al. Melidoni Str (you will find here the Jewish synagogue Beth-Shalom and the “Museum of Modern Ceramics”) and Salaminas Str. In recent years, the area has become one of Athens’s popular nightlife hubs with many small restaurants, bars and live-music nightclubs.
3 GAZI

The former Gas works is at the centre of the neighbourhood, which was formerly called “Gazohori” (Gas village). Located in western Athens, it is the third square of the city, in accordance with the Kleanthis-Schaubert urban plan. It has to a large extent maintained the colour of a historic Athens neighbourhood. You will find cafes, bars and luxury restaurants, popular among Athenians, in a multitude of old, picturesque buildings. In the area, one can choose between different theatres and theatrical scenes.

4 METAXOURGEIO

The traditional neighbourhood in the centre of Athens was planned by architect, Chr. Hansen. The name is derived from a silk fabric manufacture factory, which closed in 1875. The building still stands on Meg. Alexandrou Str, between Mylerou Str and Giatrakou Str and is undergoing renovation in order to house the municipal Art Gallery and different cultural events. On the one side of Achilles Str (facing Piraeus Str) is the old section, and on the other side (facing Lenorman Str), is the new section. The new section, which has been reconstructed, has not maintained the historic character of the neighbourhood, while in the old section a number of buildings constructed in the traditional style have been preserved. In the area, a multitude of small restaurants-bars, and cafes are in operation serving traditional oriental drinks, sweets, and food.

4.1 THE GAS WORKS

was founded in 1857 and closed in 1983. It produced lighting gas for the city. Formerly in the area were, among others, wood workshops, foundries, machine-works, garages, restaurants, barbers shops, medical centre. The Gas works, a scheduled building, is the only one of its kind in Europe. The buildings have unadorned, neoclassical masonry, a varnished, wooden roof with skylights, covered with Byzantine or French style tiles and sheet-iron. It is an industrial zone, housing a cultural centre of the Athens Municipality (“Technopolis.”)

4.2 Iasonos Str and Yiatrakou Str

Starting at Karaiskaki Square, take Achilleos Str, turn at Iasonos Str, and proceed to Agisilaou Str. You will find here small theatres in historic buildings. Take a right turn at Akadimou-Yiatrakou Str, and proceed to Achilleos Str. Take note of the small, neoclassical (one-storey and two-storey) houses with balconies, balusters, and ornate front doors. At the crossroads of Yiatrakou Str and Germanikou Str, you will find a small colourful square (Avdis Square), with cafes, bars and a playground.

4.3 The Peloponnese Railway Station

Starting at Karaiskaki Square, take a turn at Diliyianni Str, and you will arrive at this colourful building, built in 1912-1913, with an architectural design combining the neoclassical, central European and Art Nouveau styles. The railway station (serving railway lines to the Peloponnesse) is a copy in a reduced scale of the Constantinople railway station, reflecting the European architectural trends of the 19th century. Opposite the Peloponnesse Railway Station is the Larissis Railway Station (serving railway lines to central and northern Greece), built in 1908, in the neoclassical style, and later reconstructed.

5 KOLONOS

If you want to go for a walk, you can visit Kolonos, a working-class neighbourhood of Athens, near the historic centre. Although the area has been rebuilt, the neighbourhood maintains its distinct, historic character. Starting at Peloponnesse Railway Station take Ioanninnon Str, to Ippiou Kolonou Hill and (take a turn at Evripou Str) proceed to Skouze Hill. Around these small wooded hills, you will find an area of detached houses with gardens and small, elegant blocks of flats, preserving the atmosphere of the old Athens neighbourhood (the nearest metro stop is “Sepolia”).

the Philopappou Hill Area

1. MAKRIYIANNI

A residential area, enclosed by the Dionysius Areopagitou Str to the foothills of Philopappou Hill. The neoclassical houses, and the newer buildings, (especially buildings built in the interwar era), are charming. Makriyianni is one of the most elegant neighbourhoods of the city. Worth a visit are, among others, Mitaion Str, Parthenonos Str, Webster Str, Cavalloti Str, Kallisteri Str, R. Gali Str, Mouson Str.

1.1. The new Acropolis Museum

It is one of the most important contemporary works of architecture in Athens. Its construction, designed by architects B. Tschumi and Mih. Fotiadis was completed in 2007. Standing only 300m away from the Acropolis, its total area covers 21,000 sq.m, while it offers a display area of 14,000 sq.m. It is made of steel, glass and concrete; it uses natural light efficiently so that its 4,000 exhibits would show off. The last level (The Parthenon room) has the dimensions and the direction of the Parthenon and it has been rotated by 23 degrees in relation to the rest of the building so that the visitor would have an immediate view of the monument. The surrounding area, visible from the glass floor of the ground level, functions as an open-air museum-excavation. The main entrance is on Dionysius Areopagitou Street (page 6). In addition, the imposing Weiller building stands in the vicinity. Having been built by German architect W. Von Weiller, it combines Byzantine style masonry and neoclassical decorative patterns. Initially it was used as a military hospital and later as police unit headquarters, whereas since 1987 it houses the "Acropolis Research Centre" (for museum exhibits, pages 90-91).
KOUKAKI

Neighbouring Makriyanni is Koukaki, a district with a friendly, pleasant ambience and interesting sites especially the area near Philopappou hill (Panaiololiou Str, Arakinthou Str).

ANO PETRALONA

A charming, colourful neighbourhood, exuding the atmosphere of 1950’s Athens. Several examples of working-class urban architecture are preserved, among others, one-storey and two storey houses.

THE SIGHTS:

3.1 ➢ Dora Stratou Theatre is located west of the hill (ancient Amphitheatre). You can see performances of Greek folk dances by the Dora Stratou dance group. Dora Stratou dedicated her life to the research and preservation of Greek folk art. The group, which has participated in a multitude of festivals worldwide, is known in Greece and abroad. The dancers wear traditional Greek costumes of various regions of the country, and perform songs and dances of all periods of Greece’s history.

3.2 ➢ Mercuri Square is a colourful square, with small cafes, and traditional tavernas, in the nearby streets.

3.3 ➢ Stone-built houses

An attractive, small neighbourhood - in the area of Apolloniou Str and Troon Str - with stone-built houses, (of the post-war period), exuding the atmosphere of a mountain village, is being redeveloped.

4 ➢ THISSIO

The area was named after the nearby ancient temple (page 17). A traditional neighbourhood with a multitude of charming neoclassical houses and public mansions. Have a drink at one of the outdoor cafes at Thission Square (at Apostolou Pavlou Str), and enjoy a unique view of the Acropolis and the Ancient Agora area.

4.1 ➢ Irakleidon Str is the central pedestrian zone of the area, with attractive neoclassical buildings. Here, and at Akamantos Str, which is parallel to Irakleidon Str, you will find a multitude of cafes and bars, open all day. Moreover, in the nearby pedestrian zone at Eptahalkou Str you will find traditional tavernas with Mediterranean cuisine.

4.2 ➢ D. Aiginitou Str connects Apostolou Pavlou Str with the National Observatory. It has a unique view of the Acropolis, Lycabettus Hill, the Ancient Agora and the new city.

4.3 ➢ National Observatory

the oldest research institution of Greece and the Balkans, was founded in 1842. The building of the Observatory at Nymphon hill (which took its name from the sanctuary with the same name that stood there in antiquity), opposite the Acropolis and the Ancient Agora, was designed by Th. Hansen. It is an attractive neoclassical building. The building is cruciform, facing the four compass points.

67. A scene of a performance of the “Dora Stratou” theatre. The dance group comprises of 75 dancers, musicians and singers.

68. The dome of the National Observatory, the highest point of Nymphon Hill.

Located at Kolonaki are some of the best-known fashion companies.

4.4 > Ayia Marina Square is a colourful, quiet square, with Ayia Marina church (19th century) at its centre. In the north-western side, sculpted into the rock, lies the original chapel, with a posterior dome and frescoes of the 13th century.

4.5 > Thissio Park
is the north-western section of the Ancient Agora archaeological site. It was planted with trees in 1862 and ornamental plants in 1931. Formerly it was the area where Athenians celebrated Easter.

4.6 > Poulopoulos Hat-factory (66, Iraklidon Str) is a noteworthy industrial building with interesting masonry and a tiled roof. The building, an important landmark that housed a hat-factory many years, is a scheduled building. The space is used for various purposes (“Melina Mercouri” Cultural Centre).

7. Thissio Park
is the north-western section of the Ancient Agora archaeological site. It was planted with trees in 1862 and ornamental plants in 1931. Formerly it was the area where Athenians celebrated Easter.
KOLONAKI

Kolonaki is situated at an exclusive location, encompassed by Syntagma Square, Vassilisis Sofias Avenue and the slopes of Lycabettus Hill. It was named after the old column (the Greek for small column is kolonaki), in the centre of Kolonaki Square. The area was not developed before the 1880’s. In Kolonaki you will find parks and attractive buildings, built predominantly in the neoclassical and modernist architectural style, lending the area a distinguished character. It is considered the “aristocratic” neighbourhood of Athens. You will find here the most expensive commercial shops, popular cafes and modern bars, and luxury restaurants. If you seek diversion and relaxation, go for a stroll at Patriarchou Ioakim Str, Tsakalof Str, Anagnostopoulou Str, Milioni Str, Fokylidou Str, Karneadou Str, Loukanion Str, Ploutarchou Str, Haritos Str, Spefsipou Str and the Lykabettos circular.

THE SIGHTS:

1.1 Kolonaki Square (Philikis Etairias Square)

When you visit Athens you should have a coffee at one of the cafes at Kolonaki Square. Modern Athenians and foreign visitors enjoy a break at one of the cafes, eating, drinking coffee and chatting.

1.2 Dexamenis Square is a small square, which serves as a local recreation ground. The traditional café on the square attracts Athenians and visitors. It was the meeting place of intellectuals in the 20th century.

1.3 Skoufa Str

is the central street of Kolonaki, with interesting neoclassical and art deco style buildings. Along the street (from the Kolonaki square towards Neapoli), one would find many shopping centres, contemporary cafes, and small bars with a distinct air, particularly popular all day long.

1.4 Ayios Dionyssios

(Ayios Dionyssios Areopagitis, one of Athens’ early Christians, is the patron saint of Athens.

1.5 Lycavittou Square is located near Ayios Dionyssios (at the crossroads of Lycavittou Str and Anagnostopoulou Str). Dominating the square is the Dragounis Mansion (1925), a private residence, which formerly accommodated the Brazilian Embassy.

1.6 Voukourestiou Str distinctive Athens road, it connects the foot of Lycabettus hill with Syntagma Square. In the pedestrian zone (linking Academias Str to Panepistimiou Str), you will find a multitude of attractive cafes and bars.

1.7 Marasleio

An impressive neoclassical building (at the crossroads of Marasi Str and Spefsipou Str), it is the work of architect D. Kallias (1905) and houses the education Institute “Marasleios Academy of primary education”.

1.8 Taxiarhes

when you ask directions if people refer to Syntagma Square. Plaka, the Acropolis, the Cathedral, the National Garden, Ermou Str, and Kolonaki, are located in the vicinity of Syntagma Square. You will find fashionable cafes and small restaurants located here. The square is busy around the clock. At the kiosks you will find miscellaneous items, among others souvenirs, newspapers, and foreign magazines.

The Parliament

Dominating Syntagma Square, the building was the residence of the first king of Greece Otto. The building was constructed from 1836 to 1842. George A’, who succeeded Otto on the throne, also resided in the palace. During his reign, two successive fires destroyed the building, making it unsuitable for use as a royal residence. In 1924 the government decided to situate Parliament in the building. Reconstruction work was completed in 1934. The interior was redesigned by architect A. Kriezis. In Parliament you will find national treasures, such as the first Greek Constitution, and a multitude of valuable paintings. The library is worth a visit.

Monument of the Unknown Soldier

Built from 1929-1932, in front of Parliament, it is a sculpted depiction of a slain soldier (the work of sculptor K. Dimitriadis), bearing an inscription with excerpts of Pericle’s Epitaph. Commemorated on the marble wall surrounding the monument are the greatest battles of the Greek army posterior to 1821. Greek and visiting officials lay a wreath at the monument on national holidays. The monument is guarded around the clock by two select troops, called Evzones, who wear the traditional uniform. The ceremony of the changing of the guard, which takes place every hour, is worth seeing, especially on Sunday morning (11 a.m.), when it is accompanied by a military band and a large regiment of Evzones.
You will find here attractive neoclassical buildings and, at the crossroads of Philellinon Str, Xenofontos Str and Souri Str, the Sotira Lykodimou church (page 24) and the Anglican church of Saint Paul (1843), the work of Ch. Hansen, with elements of Gothic style and cruciform shape.

2.6 Amalias Avenue is a broad avenue connecting Hadrian’s Arch (page 6) with Syntagma Square. An elegant street with stately neoclassical and modernist buildings, it is located in the vicinity of the National Garden. As you ascend towards Syntagma Square, you will have a view of Parliament and, in the distance, Licabettus Hill.

3 NATIONAL GARDEN

The National Garden, open from dawn to sunset, is an oasis in the centre of the city. It has a total area of 160,000 m². Some five hundred different kinds of plants, bushes and trees from various locations around the world are grown here (in total, it has 7,000 trees and 40,000 bushes). At the same time, it comprises an important natural life reserve in Athens as many different species of birds, hedgehogs, turtles, ducks and even bats are gathered here. The National Garden - which was formerly the palace garden - was laid out from 1838-1860. There are six entrances: at Vassilisis Sofias Avenue, Irodou Attikou Str, Vassilisis Amalias Avenue, and two entrances connecting the National Garden to the Zappeion. You will also find here a small pond, a small zoo, the Botanical Museum, a traditional café, a children’s library, a playground, various monuments of antiquity, and the busts of important personalities of modern Greece (among others, politicians and authors).

3.1 Zappeion Mansion an attractive building designed by Th. Hansen, it was constructed from 1874-1888. In the past few years some of the most significant events in the history of the country have taken place in the “Conferences and Exhibitions Mansion,” such as European summits, the announcement of election results, and significant political announcements. Moreover, art exhibitions and occasionally concerts are held here. In the vicinity of the mansion are the statues of the Zappas brothers, who funded the construction of the building, and an attractive park, where Athenians go for a walk, especially on Sundays. Near the Zappeion Mansion is a luxury café and an open-air cinema.

THE RIGILLIS AREA

A prestigious area with luxury residential buildings, villas and abundant vegetation. It is encompassed by Vassilisis Sofias Avenue, Rigillis Str, Vassileos Konstantinou Avenue and Irodou Attikou Str. The area is located in the vicinity of the old palace (now the Presidential Mansion).

4.1 ➤ Presidential Mansion
(Irodou Attikou Str)
The former Royal palace, three storeyed, bearing profound neoclassical and elite elements (1890-1897), designed by the architect Err. Ziller. Formerly it was used as the residence of the princes-heirs to the Hellenic Royal Crown, later as a palace, and in 1974 as the official residence of the President of the Hellenic Republic. It is surrounded by an attractive 6 acre garden. The mansion is guarded by Evzones, wearing a distinctive uniform.

4.2 ➤ Maximou Mansion
(Irodou Attikou Str)
The official residence of the respective Greek prime minister, it was designed in 1924 by Ant. Helmis. The mansion was constructed following the death of Helmis, by his wife, and her new husband D. Maximos. It has a small garden.

4.3 ➤ The statues
The sculptures at the junction of Irodou Attikou Str (facing Kallimarmaro Stadium) are among the most attractive in Athens: the Discus thrower, a bronze statue by K. Dimitriades (1927), the marble Wood-chopper by D. Filippotis, 1872-1875 – gymnast V. Yiannoulis posed for the work – and the Statue of G. Karaiskakis, a bronze monumental sculpture (4.40 metres high), by M. Tombros (1963-1966), depicting a hero of the Greek revolution on horseback.

5 PANATHENAIKON (KALLIMARMARO) STADIUM

The Panathenaikon Stadium, a remarkable construction, was made of white marble. The petal shaped stadium is located facing the National Garden. In 330 BC a stadium made of wood was built at this location. Herodes Atticus constructed a marble construction, which was the model for the construction of the stadium that stands today. It was used as a space for athletic competitions, which took place during the Panathenaean festival (page 20). The stadium that stands today has a capacity of approx. 60,000 spectators. It was built in 1869-1870 and it was the venue of the first Olympic Games in modern history (1896). Surrounding the stadium is the wooded Ardittos Hill, where local residents go for a walk.
outdoor sculpture display, with a stately and serene garden, excellent monumental tombstones, built by some of the most important Greek sculptors of the past two centuries.

THE SIGHTS:

- Koimomeni: The most famous sculpture of modern Greek art, made by Y. Halepas in 1878, for the grave of S. Afentakis.
- G. Averof Monument: The grandest monument of the cemetery, built by the sculptors G. Vitalis and D. Filippotis. The remains of the national benefactor are here.
- Hein. Schliemann Monument: The tomb monument of the German archaeologist who discovered ancient Troy, made by Ern. Ziller (1892). It is shaped like a church. On the groundwork are sculpted depictions of the Trojan Cycle.
- Chr. Zografos Monument: Built in the renaissance style, it recalls the Mausoleum of Lawrence of Medici in Florence.
- Nude Angel: A remarkable tombstone sculpture by G. Vitsaris (1872), on the tomb of N. Koumelis.

6 METZ

One of the most fashionable neighbourhoods of Athens was developed in the 1870’s. It was named after the Metz brewery that was located in the area, and for a long time it was a popular recreational area. In the 1950’s the riverbed of the Ilissos (at Ardittou Str.), passed through it. Today it is a quiet residential area, encompassed by the Ardittou hill and the 1st Cemetery (along the Loginou Str. pedestrian zone). In the central road of the area, M. Mousourou Str., are cafes. Worth seeing are other distinctive roads of the neighbourhood (among others, Nik. Theotokis Str, Trivonianou Str, Dikaiarchou Str, Balanou Str).

If you take Kleitomachou Str, Arhimidou Str and Embedokleous Str, you will reach Varnava square. You will find here cafes, traditional tavernas and luxury restaurants. You can return to the Panathenaikon Stadium via Agras Str.

7 1st CEMETERY

It is the oldest and biggest cemetery of Athens. Several important personalities of modern Greece have been laid to rest here (among others, politicians, scientists, artists, religious leaders etc). The foundation of the cemetery coincided with the foundation of the modern Greek state. The design recalls the major cemeteries of Western Europe in the early 1900’s. It is basically an...
Tour of Athens, Stage 8:

FROM Lycabettus Hill to Strefi Hill

A forest in the heart of the city, it is considered by Athenians one of the most favourite places for hiking, resting and relaxing in the different cafes and restaurants operating there. According to mythology, goddess Athena wanted her temple in Acropolis to be closer to heaven. One stormy night she went to Mount Penteli (page 103), and took a large rock with the purpose of placing it on the existing rock. As she transported the rock, two black birds approached her, bringing her bad news regarding something she had to take care of immediately. In her rage and haste, the rock fell in the centre of Athens. The rock, which is 278 metres high, is located in the centre of Athens. In ancient times the hill was covered by lush vegetation and on its top stood a temple dedicated to Zeus. By the time Athens was liberated from the Turkish occupation, Lycabettus Hill had no trees at all. Reforestation started in 1880 and was completed in 1915.

The view of the city: Don’t miss the view of the Acropolis and of the entire city extending up to the sea. You will also enjoy walking along narrow paths all the way to the top of the hill.
1. Lycabettus Theatre

An open-air theatre built from 1964-1965 by the architect T. Zenetos at the site of an old mine following the recommendation of the Greek actress A. Synodinou, for performances of ancient drama. It has a capacity of 3,000. In summer cultural events are staged here, attracting music and theatre fans.

2. Neapoli

Neapoli is encompassed by Lycabettus hill and Mavromihali Str. It is, after Plaka, the oldest neighbourhood of Athens (Neapoli means New Town). Neapoli and Exarhia were developed in 1860. The first residents were mostly students. The area is situated near the University and the Polytechnic. Later it became a favourite residential neighbourhood of artists. At Asklipiou is the remarkable neoclassical church of Ayios Nikolaos Pefkakion (1895). Facing Lycabettus Hill, is an area on a steep incline, with pedestrian zone, lined with trees and steps leading to the central roads (among others, Solonos Str., Asklipiou Str, Ippokratous Str, Sina Str, Massalias Str and Delfon Str) where you will find, among others, a multitude of cafes, small bookshops, antique shops.

3. Exarhia

An old Athens neighbourhood, with a special charm. It is known as a residential neighbourhood of students and artists, with a Bohemian character, contrasting with the “worldly” Kolonaki Square. In the past few decades, a series of reconstruction works have considerably upgraded the area. A multitude of important neoclassical, eclectic and modernist buildings are preserved. Following the renovation works, the neighbourhood attracted a new generation of residents. Go for a walk in the pedestrian zone of Themistocleous Str (from Themistocleous Square to Kallidromiou Str) and other pedestrian zones of the area (among others, Velezsiou Str, Methonis Str, Eresou Str), a quiet area, and rest in a café, bar or traditional taverna.

4. Strefi Hill

Strefi hill is located in the vicinity of Exarheia Square, and despite of its relatively small size (approximately 12.5 acres) it forms a green oasis in the densely built city. It was planted with trees in the decade of the 1920’s, until then it was used as a quarry. Nowadays one will find here sport facilities, ouzo bars, an open-air theatre made of stone, and at the top you may enjoy a panoramic view of the city. To get there, you take Kallidromiou Str, a beautiful street, with neoclassical mansions and small popular cafes and bars, (from Emm. Benaki Str to Deliyianni Str).

THE SIGHTS:

3.1 Exarhia Square

Is the central square of the neighbourhood. It is a busy square, with a vivid night life. You will find here a multitude of cafes and small, trendy bars and two open-air cinemas, offering unique entertainment in the summer. Also, in the neighbouring streets apart from the many restaurants and café-bars, one would find unique shops selling clothes, old records, books and hand-made jewellery.
Tour of Athens, Stage 9:

FROM SYNTAGMA SQUARE TO OMONIA SQUARE

1. SYNTAGMA SQUARE (page 52)

2. PANEPISTIMIOU AVENUE (EL. VENIZELOU)

One of the oldest roads of Athens, it was originally designed to be a Boulevard (formerly called Boulevard Str). Today it is one of the busiest roads, linking Syntagma Square with Omonia Square. On this broad avenue, a number of the most important, representative public buildings of Athens were built, unique landmarks of the city.

2.1. Army Pension Funds Building

A stately building occupying the block encompassed by Panepistimiou Str, Youkourestiou Str, Amerikis Str and Stadiou Str, it was built from 1927-1938. The royal stables were formerly located here. The façade was built in the Art Deco style. In the centre is an arcade with shops. Recently reconstructed, the building is now a shopping centre and an office building, while it incorporates three theatres (the “Pallas”, the “Small Pallas” and the “Aliki” Theatre), cafes and restaurants.

2.2. Iliou Melathron (12, Panepistimiou Str) is one of the most attractive neoclassical buildings of Athens. It was reconstructed in 1879 by Ern. Ziller in the neoclassical style. It was the residence of the German archaeologist and philhelene Hein. Schliemann. It has a double stairway in the northern side, while in the façade and the other two floors, are colonnades with Ionic columns. The interior is decorated with “Pompeian” frescoes and depictions of the landscapes and finds of Troy. In 1927 it became the seat of the Supreme Court (the highest penal court of the country). It houses now the Numismatic Museum (page 92).

2.3. Archaeological Society Mansion

A five-storey building, it is an exceptional example of late classicism. The entrance is decorated with Ionic columns. Located at the crossroads of Omirou Str and Panepistimiou Avenue, it houses the Archaeological Society of Athens.

2.4. Catholic Church of Ayios Dionysios (1853-1865) (Panepistimiou Avenue and Omirou Str)

The three columned, cross-in-square style church was designed by the architects L. von Klenze and L. Kallantzoglou. The portico in the western side has five cylindrical arches (it is located at the crossroads of Panepistimiou Avenue and Omirou Str).
produced by K. Rahl.

THE THREE TEMPLES OF LEARNING (“Athenian Trilogy”) Three stately buildings constructed by two Danish architects, the Hansen brothers, who lived in Greece.

2.7 Athens Academy (1859-1887): On either side of the Academy, are two wings decorated with friezes and a pair of high columns supporting the statues of Apollo and Athena, whereas at the front side of the building the visitors are welcomed by the statues of Plato and Socrates. The Academy was studied by Th. Hansen, the younger of the Hansen brothers. The statues were sculpted by L. Drosis and the painted decoration was produced by K. Rahl. The Academy is thought to be a prime example of Greek architectural style.

2.8 University (1839-1864): The University of Athens was designed by Ch. Hansen, the elder of the Hansen brothers. Worth seeing are the fountain in the court, the circular stairway and the multicoloured frescoes with classical themes (designed by the Bavarian K. Rahl), decorating the walls, located behind the columns on the balcony.
range of thousands of books in all languages. On the façade is a stately six-column portico in the Doric style, based on the design of the Theseion. The interior, designed by Ern. Ziller, is lighted by a skylight on the roof and encompassed by an Ionic style colonnade.

2.10 Cultural Centre of the Athens Municipality
Located in the vicinity of the “trilogy” (at Akadimias Str 50), it is a remarkable neoclassical building which was built in 1835 according to the design of Chr. Hansen. It was a hospital in the course of decades. Cultural events are held in the building. In front of the main entrance of the building is a small garden with the busts of historical figures (among others, artists and politicians), while on the other side, (at Solonos Str), is a traditional café. Exactly adjacent to the café (at Akadimias Str) is the stately Palamas building (with a pink interior, it is known as the “pink building”). Built in 1857-1859, it houses the Theatrical Museum library. Diagonally across the street, (at the crossroads of Ippocratous Str and Akadimias Str), is the Student Union of the University of Athens (1926-1931), designed by Al. Nikoloudis in the eclectic style of the Beaux Arts.

2.11 Korai Square
Is a small, attractive square, developed when a pedestrian street was created at Korai Str. North-east of the square is the Rallis building (10, Korai Square) built in the early neoclassical style. Opposite the Rallis building is the modernist building of the General Accounting Office (designed by E. Lazaridis). Northwest of the square is the remarkable former hotel Grand Hotel (2, Korai Square, today used as a shopping centre). Opposite the Grand Hotel is the modern building of the Commercial Bank. At the square you will also find the recently renovated Korai Arcade with a multitude of cafes, fast food restaurants, shops, and a cinema.

2.12 Ionian Bank Mansion (Pematsoglou Str)
A remarkable eclectic style mansion with art deco decoration (1925). The central transactions hall has a notable colonnade and balconies. The lighting, a skylight with stained glass windows, is spectacular.

2.13 Arsakeion Mansion (1846-1855)
A stately two-storey mansion, it is a distinctive example of Greek classicism with a strain of eclecticism. Formerly the Arsakeion Girls School, it is now the Council of State, (highest Court of State). Adjacent to the mansion is the Courts Square.

2.14 Arsakeion Arcade (Orfeos): The arcade in the Mansion, built in the neobaroque style, has a remarkable glass roof with a dome in the centre. You will find here shops, cafes and the “Stoa tou Vivliou”, (Book Arcade) with the bookshops of 60 Greek publishing houses. Cultural events are held at the Stoa tou Vivliou.

2.15 “Rex” Cinema
A mansion with three halls (cinema-theatre), built from 1935-1937, the design was influenced by contemporary American skyscrapers. Two halls are now used for performances of the National Theatre. The third is an entertainment centre.

3 Omonia Square
A central square, which is busy around the clock, throughout the year, by contrast with Syntagma Square. Omonia Square has always been busy around the clock. According to custom, Athenians, after a night out Saturday evening, buy Sunday papers at kiosks and stands on the square. Omonia is the oldest central square of modern Athens. A visit to Omonia, to get a sense of the vibrancy of the square is a must for all visitors. At the square you will find the usual fast-food shops. Foreign newspapers are sold in kiosks. At the square are stately buildings, in particular the hotels “Bangeion” and “Alexandros” (at the crossroads of Athinas Str,) the “Neon” café, and a branch of the National Bank (at Panepistimiou Str). At Omonia Square is a central metro station.

3.1 The Omonia Square Area
Syntioui Str, Patision Str, Pane-pistimiou Avenue, 3rd Septemvriou Str, Piraeus Str, Athinas Str and Ayiou Konstantinou Str converge at Omonia Square, today used as a shopping centre. Opposite the Grand Hotel is the modern building of the Commercial Bank.

101. Two silver domes decorating the tower-like corners of the Arsakeion Megaro facing Stadiou Street.
4.2 > AYIOS KONSTANTINOS
(Ayiou Konstantinou Str)

Facing the National Theatre, it is a monumental church (1871-1896/1905) built by L. Kafanttzoglou. The recently renovated three-columned, cross-in-square church has a stately façade in a combination of neoclassical and renaissance styles, a monumental entrance in the form of an ancient propylaea, and an attractive interior decoration.

4.3 > PIREOS STR
(P. Tsaldari Str)

Constructed along the path of the ancient road linking Athens to Piraeus. The Long Walls were constructed along the side of the street. The first paved road in Athens, Pireos Str links the city with the port of Piraeus. In the 19th century an industrial zone was developed and a multitude of factories were constructed along the road. In the past few years a multitude of factories were renovated and used for another purpose (museums, cultural centres, the Higher School of Fine Arts). The buildings at Pireos Str, a very busy street, are interesting examples of urban industrial architecture. At number 138 of Pireos Str one will find a modern building that houses the new Benaki Museum where periodic exhibits of the Museum are held (page 94). At number 254, Tauros area stands the Civilisation Centre “Hellenic Cosmos” established by the Foundation of the Hellenic world (page 99).

4.4 > Koumoundourou Square (Eleftherias)

An attractive, wooded square. Facing Pireos Str is the grand neoclassical mansion of the “Municipal Gallery” built in 1874 (designed by G. Metaxas). Neighbouring the gallery is the small church of Ayioi Anargyroi (1893). Located on the square is a small stone-built theatre, which is used for events.

4.5 > Ayion Assomaton Str

As you descend Pireos Str take a left turn at Ayion Assomaton Str. You will find at number 45 one of the best-known traditional buildings of Athens (picturesque classicist style, 1880), with copies of the famous twin Caryatids on the balcony. The house, is among the most photographed and painted themes of Athens.

4.7 > Botanical Garden of the Athens University

Located at the crossroads of Iera Odos, which in Greek means Sacred Road (built along the path of the ancient road of the Eleusinian Mysteries page 115) and Sp. Patsi Str. It has a total area of 7,000 m². Some 120 varieties of trees and plants and mosses and grasses from different parts of the world.
Tour of Athens, Stage 10:

FROM OMONIA SQUARE TO KYPSELI

A central road linking Patisia to the centre, before the early 20th century Patisia Str was a rural area with small houses and gardens! Following rapid development, it became clearly an urban location, now one of the busiest streets of Athens. Among a multitude of new buildings, neoclassical, Art Nouveau and modernist buildings are preserved. As you head from the crossroads of Patision Str and Alexandras Avenue, towards Patisia, on your left is Victoria Square (at 3rd Septemvriou Str), on your right is the stately Higher School of Economic and Scientific Studies, (1935), on your left the “Hara” block of flats, an pioneering work built in the 1920’s at Patission Str 337 and on your right the Kyriadiis neighbourhood (in the vicinity of Papadiamantis Square), formerly a garden city (with villas, two-storey blocks of flats, densely vegetated) developed in the 1920’s - the suburban style has been preserved notwithstanding subsequent development.

THE SIGHTS:

1. Polytechnic School (National Metsovio Polytechnic)
   Designed by the architect L. Kaftantzoglou, the Polytechnic was built from 1861-1876. It is an archetype of the urban tradition of Athens. It comprises of a central building and T-shaped wings facing Patision Str. It has two floors and the entrance is elevated. Two monumental staircases lead to the Ionian style four-column propylaea of the ground floor, a copy of the northern hall of the Erechteion (page 13).

2. “Acropol Palace” Hotel (1925-1926)
   A five-story building designed by the architect I. Mayiasis, the Acropol Palace is a distinctive example of Athens Art Nouveau architecture.

3. Tositsa Str
   A wide pedestrian zone, flanked by the National Metsovio Polytechnic and the garden of the National Archaeological Museum, with a row of trees in the middle, Tositsa Str is a place to relax and stroll.
TOUR OF ATHENS, stage 10

THE SIGHTS:

1.4 The National Archaeological Museum
A stately building constructed in the late 19th century, the National Archaeological Museum was designed by L. Lange and Ern. Ziller. The Ionian style propylae are adorned with clay statues, the copies of ancient works, while on either side is an oblong arcade. Athenians like to stroll in the attractive garden in front of the museum, especially in summer (for museum exhibits page 86).

1.5 Egyptou Square
An elegant square with neoclassical and modernist buildings, examples of the formerly bourgeois character of the area, located at the crossroads of Alexandras Avenue, and Patision Str.

2 Pedion Tou Areos
The largest park in Athens (230,000 m²), was laid out in 1934. Named after the roman campus martius, the park used to be a training ground for military units. Athenians like to go for a walk here all year round, or seek entertainment at cafes, outdoor theatres, and other venues.

2.1 The statue of King Constantine: A bronze statue of king Constantine (1868-1922) placed on a monumental marble pedestal, erected in 1938. It is located at the central entrance of the park, facing Egyptou Square.

2.2 Statue of Athena (Promahos): A monument dedicated to the British, Australian and New Zealand soldiers killed in the Second World War, it was sculpted in 1952 by sculptor V. Falireas. The marble lions at the base were sculpted by Ath. Limnaios.

2.3 Iroon Avenue: A wide, stately road in the park with the busts of the freedom fighters of the Greek Revolution. You will find it at the Mavromateon Str entrance.

remains and the statue of prince Alexander Ypsilantis (1792-1828), who was closely connected to the Greek Revolution of 1821.

2.5 Ayios Haralambos
The church was built in 1928, in cruciform shape, at the site of an old church. In the church are icons of the important Greek painter F. Kontologou.

2.6 Mavromaton Str
An elegant road linking the Archaeological Museum with Kodringotonos Str. Facing Pedion tou Areos is a row of stately, luxury blocks of flats, most of them built in 1925-1960, when the street was thought to be one of the most prestigious locations of the city.

3 Kypseli
A distinctive bourgeois neighbourhood of Athens, Kypseli has preserved its aristocratic character, although in the past few decades it has been rebuilt and is now densely populated. In the 1990’s a multitude of immigrants settled in Kypseli, transforming it into a charming multicultural neighbourhood. Among the modern blocks of flats several examples of stately neoclassical buildings and blocks of flats of the interwar period are preserved, which are worth seeing. They are located on distinctive roads of the neighbourhood (among others, Drosopoulou Str, Eptanisou Str, Ithakis Str, Tinion Str, Tenedou Str, Spetsos Str, Lefkadas Str). You will also find in Kypseli the notable churches Ayia Zoni (1927) and Ayios Georgios (at the square of the same name, 1931).

3.1 Fokionos Negri Str
A wide, stately, densely vegetated pedestrian zone linking Kypseli Square to Drosopoulou Str, Fokionos Negri Str is the centre of the neighbourhood. Originally called the “green boulevard”, Fokionos Negri Str was built in 1937, at the site of a stream. In the 1960’s it acquired a reputation for nightlife, attracting politicians and artists. A busy street throughout the day, it is a popular recreational area, with dozens of cafes, restaurants and small bars. On the pedestrian passage between Sporadon and Zakyntshou Str (42, Fokionos Negri Str) stands the preserved building of the old Municipal Market (1935), used now by the residents of the area as a cultural event centre and an organic foods market.

3.2 Courts (former Army Cadet School)
A complex of neoclassical buildings, the courts are located south of Kypseli (Evelpidon Str). The building was built from 1900-1904, (designed by Ern. Ziller), for the Army Cadet School. In the early 1980’s the Athens Courts were accommodated here.
Tour of Athens, Stage 11:

Historical Walk

If you don’t have much time, in the historical walk (approximately 3.5 kilometres) you can visit and see the most important monuments and sights of Athens. It is a walk through history, from classical antiquity, through all the historical periods, architectural styles, and successive phases of the development of the city to the 21st century (classical period, roman period, Byzantium, Turkish occupation, neoclassicism, and 20th century). In fact it is a walk in history, which only Athens can offer.

The most impressive road of Athens, linking Syntagma Square to Ampelokipi. Formerly called Kifissias Avenue, it linked Athens to the traditional suburb of Kifisia. It has in part lost the original character of a classic boulevard. However, it is one of the most charming roads of the city, with some of the most attractive buildings, museums and parks.
8. THE NATIONAL GARDEN (page 54)
A detail of the central building of the Greek Ministry of Foreign Affairs.
7 THE STATHTATOS MANSION
A remarkable neoclassical mansion (at the crossroads of Irodotou Str and Vassilisis Sofias Avenue), Stathatos Mansion was designed by Ern. Ziller in 1885. It accommodates the new wing of the Goulandris Museum of Cycladic and Ancient Greek Art (page 92). It is linked to the museum by a glass-covered passage.

6 THE SAROGLEIO MANSION (Officers Club)
A stately building constructed in the Beaux Arts style, it is located at Rigillis Square (P. Mella). It was designed by architect Al. Nikoloudis.

8 THE BYZANTINE AND CHRISTIAN MUSEUM
The main building of the Museum is “Villa Ilisia”), a neorenaissance style building, constructed at the bank of the then uncovered Ilissos river. It was the residence of S. de Marbois-Lebrun, known as the “Duchess of Plaisance.” The building was designed by St. Kleanthis, (or according to some sources Chr. Hansen). Following the death of the duchess (1854), the mansion was acquired by the Greek state. It houses the museum since 1930. Two new wings were built in 1952 and 1994 (for the exhibits, page 95).

9 THE WAR MUSEUM
A modern building (designed by Th. Valentis), inaugurated in 1975, for the purposes of gathering, preserving and exhibiting military relics and other national tokens demonstrating the history and struggles of the Greek nation, (for the exhibits, page 96).

10 THE RESIDENCE OF THE BRITISH AMBASSADOR
Located at the crossroads of Vassilisis Avenue and Loukianou Str, the building was constructed from 1930-1932 (designed by An. Metaxas). Formerly the residence of the then Prime Minister Eleftherios Venizelos, it was granted to the British state following his death. It accommodated the British embassy in Athens before 1960. Following the construction in a neighbouring location of the new building of the embassy, it became the residence of the ambassador.

11 AYIOS NIKOLAOS and AYIOS GEORGIOS
Small churches in cruciform four-column style, Ayios Nikolaos and Ayios Georgios are representative examples of the architectural trends of the late 19th century. Ayios Nikolaos (1876 neighbouring the British embassy) is built in a distinctive neo-Byzantine style, while Ayios Georgios combines the Byzantine, classical and roman styles.
12 THE "EVANGELISMOS" HOSPITAL (old building)
A neoclassical building (designed by G. Metaxas) Evangelismos hospital was inaugurated in 1880 by then Queen Olga. Later an English-style garden was laid out in the yard.

13 MEGALI TOU GENOUS SCHOLI SQUARE
A small square at the crossroads of Vassilisis Sofias Avenue and Vassileos Konstantinou Avenue. In the centre is the impressionist sculpture of K. Varotsos "Dromeas" (1988), sculpted exclusively out of sheets of glass. Facing the square is the "Hilton" (1958-1963) hotel, with elements of the international modernist style (at the neighbouring streets, Venturi Str, Mexi Str etc. are cafes, bars and small restaurants). On the opposite side of the square (at the crossroads of Vassilisis Sofias Avenue and Gennadiou Str) are two remarkable Art Deco blocks of flats of the interwar period. Adjacent to the "Hilton" hotel is the building of the National Gallery - Museum Alexandros Soutzos (page 96), built in 1966-1975 in the brutalist architectural style of Le Corbusier. Facing the National Gallery is the Rizari park, one of Athens’ oldest gardens.

14 ELEFHERIAS PARK
A park with a statue of Eleftherios Venizelos (sculpted by the sculptor G. Pappas). In the rear section are three stone built buildings, accommodating the Athens Municipality Arts Centre and the "Eleftherios Venizelos Museum." Facing the park is a row of three unadorned neoclassical buildings of the hospitals "Aeginitio," "Aretaio," and "Alexandra."

15 THE ATHENS CONCERT HALL
A monumental work (designed by M. Vourekas), the Athens Concert Hall was built in stages from 1973-1991. It is thought to be one of the best concert halls in the world. It has, among others, concert and opera halls, a musical library, a conference centre, and halls for multiple uses. In the winter concerts, opera, theatre and dance performances, and other events, are held here.

16 THE AMERICAN EMBASSY
The most important example of modern architecture in Athens (1959-1961), designed by the famous architect W. Gropius.

17 MAVILI SQUARE
Among the most “vibrant” squares of Athens, with a multitude of cafes, bars and restaurants in the area, Mavili Square attracts visitors throughout the day. It is a prestigious residential area, near Lycabetus Hill and the central Vassilisis Sofias Avenue and Alexandras Avenue. Recently it has lost some of its former charm as a result of the traffic on the surrounding streets.

18 THE IPPOKRATEIO HOSPITAL
A scheduled public building, constructed in the 1880’s in the neoclassical style. It has accommodated a hospital since 1912. Adjacent to the hospital is the chapel of Ayios Andreas (17th century).

19 TOWER OF ATHENS
The first glass skyscraper of Athens (1971-1973) – one of a few skyscrapers constructed in the greater urban area of the capital. A complex of respectively two 25- and 12-storey buildings, the tower of Athens accommodates mainly company offices. In front of the Tower of Athens is a small villa with a garden, a relic of the 1920’s when the area (Ampelokipi) was rural.
Suburbs

During your stay in Athens you may want to visit the suburbs. In the suburbs you may go for a walk on vegetated roads, and relax at a confectionery, café or bar.

The Northern Suburbs (Psihiko, Filothei, Maroussi, Kifissia)

The suburbs of Psihiko, and Filothei were developed in the late 1920’s on the model of British garden cities. They are quiet residential areas, with attractive villas, abundant vegetation and broad streets.

In Maroussi are the facilities of the Olympic Athletic Centre of Athens (O.A.K.A.), the central group of facilities for the 2004 Olympic Games. Kifissia is perhaps the most elegant suburb of northern Athens. The luxury villas of Kifisia of the 19th century were raised by the oldest Athenian families. With attractive villas and vibrant shopping streets, Kifissia is an attractive area. Worth seeing is the Goulandris Natural History Museum (page 100), the significant Archaeological Collection (page 135), which comprises Roman monuments, grave stelae, terracotta and marble findings, statues and busts from the area. open Air cinemas and the Flower Show, which takes place every May in Kifissia Grove. Some of the best restaurants, confectioneries and cafes of Athens are in Kifissia. Alsos Syngrou, (1,000,000 m²) adjacent to Kifissia and Maroussi, a wooded area, is an ideal place to go for a walk and relax.

The main road linking Athens to the suburbs is Kifissias Avenue. You can reach Maroussi and Kifissia on line 1 of the metro.

The Athens Olympic Stadium (see right, during the Opening Ceremony of the Athens 2004 Olympic Games), location of a multitude of athletic installations and recreation areas, linked to other areas of the capital by bus lines, the suburban railway and the metro (“Irini” station, see left). The roof was designed by the well-known architect S. Calatrava.
THE SOUTHERN SUBURBS
(Faliro, Glyfada, Voula, Vouliagmeni)

The southern suburbs are located on the coast of the Saronic Gulf, from Piraeus to cape Vouliagmeni. Access from Athens is easy (the southern suburbs are just 20-30 minutes from the centre). The southern suburbs are an ideal place to go for a walk by the seaside, and swim. The best and most popular beaches of Attica, with clean water ([page 132]) are located here. The areas each have a shopping centre with superb shops. In the southern suburbs you can walk on the marinas, have lunch or dinner by the seaside, enjoy your favourite water sports, or play golf, in a court with international standards (18 holes, par 72 course), located in Glyfada.

In Trocadero (P. Faliron) you may visit the Maritime Museum, on one of the most famous warships of recent Greek history, the battleship Averof, as well as an exemplary playground, open-air cinema and cycling tracks. In Ayios Kosmas is a large seaside park. A metropolitan park with an area of 1,000 acres will be constructed in the area of the old airport (Helleniko). Vouliagmeni is an attractive suburb with abundant vegetation, elegant villas, attractive beaches, the unique Vouliagmeni Lake, and some of the best hotels in Attica. Athenians visit the coast and have lunch at a restaurant or a drink at a bar by the seaside.

In order to reach these suburbs you may use the tram which leaves from Syntagma Square and runs along two lines: line Γ1 towards Neo Faliro (terminal at the Peace and Friendship Stadium) and line Γ2 towards Voula (terminal at “Asclepeio Voulas”). Moreover line Γ3 follows the itinerary Voula - Neo Faliro, offering you the opportunity to enjoy a unique trip along the coastal area. Also, you can reach the southern suburbs by using bus lines B3 (Akadimias-Glyfada, via Vouliagmenis Avenue), E22 (Akadimias-Saronida, express line), et al.

125. Vouliagmeni lake has therapeutic water. The geological attraction is the popular destination of the residents of Attica.
THE NATIONAL ARCHAEOLOGICAL MUSEUM

The completely renovated National Archaeological Museum ranks among the leading archaeological museums in the world. You will be impressed by the treasures of the museum and will want to come back for another visit. However, if you come just once, be sure to have enough time. The museum contains approximately 11,000 masterpieces dating from the 7th millennium B.C to the 5th century B.C which are classified in 7 collections:

- Prehistoric (Neolithic, Cycladic and Mycenaean antiquities, rooms 3-6 and 48 on the 1st floor), Sculptures (rooms 7-35), Bronze (rooms 36-39), Egyptian Antiquities (rooms 40-41, of world-wide importance), Stathatou (room 42 with 970 works of art mainly miniatures), Vases and Miniatures (rooms 49-63 1st floor) and Cypriot (room 64 1st floor). In addition to the permanent exhibits, the Museum also holds temporary exhibitions and educational programs. We list some of the exhibits of the museum:

  - The golden mask of Agamemnon (Room 4). Although it has been proven that it is not the mask of Agamemnon, it is a noteworthy exhibit, well worth seeing. Schliemann’s theory was mistaken – today it is thought to be the mask of a dead king, who died three centuries before Agamemnon (16th century BC). In the gallery of Mycenaean Antiquities, other than the mask, you can see jewels, golden works of art, swords etc, found in the royal graves of Mycenae.

  - The Harper of Keros (Room 6). It dates back to the early Bronze era (2700-2300 B.C) and is one of the most ancient depictions of musicians of Early Cycladic idol sculpture. It represents a man seated on a throne holding a harp or lyre in his right hand, with a raised head and slightly open thighs.

  - The Kouros of Sounion (Room 8). It was a votive offering of a sailor to Poseidon, dating from 600 B.C. It bears a height of 3m in frontal position, with his left foot forward.

  - Dimitra and Persephone (Room 14). This attractive, well-preserved statue from Elefsina was sculpted from around 440-430 BC. It depicts Dimitra giving hay to the Triptolemos, the young king of Elefsina. To her right, her daughter Persephone gives her blessing. Notice that the Triptolemos and Dimitra have different sizes. In that period artists made gods taller when they were depicted with mortals on a dedicatory column - a sign of respect of the gods.

  - The Poseidon (or Zeus) of Artemission (Room 15). Is it perhaps a statue of Poseidon or of Zeus? Archaeologists have not come up with an answer. The bronze statue, a masterpiece of the sculpture of the classical period, is 2.09 metres high. It is one of the few preserved original bronze statues.

  - Myrrine’s oil-flask (Room 16). It is the main exhibit in the hall, which bears Myrrine’s name. It is sculpted on white marble and was discovered in 1873. It is decorated with a sculpture representing Hermes driving with one hand a young woman, Myrrini. According to the epigram located on her head, the god’s purpose was to bring the woman to Pluto (god of Hades). Three men, relatives of Myrrine observe the spectacle. (430-420 BC).

  - The stele of Hegeso (Room 18). Don’t fail to see the famous column (stele) of Hegeso (5th century BC). It was discovered in Kerameikos (page 19-21). There is copy of the column in Kerameikos. The sculpture depicts Hegeso seated, taking a jewel from a box. A slave is holding the box. It is thought that the colours used for the background of the sculpture and the jewel are blue and gold respectively. On the upper section of the column is carved the name “Hegesou tou

- The Horse rider of Artemision (Room 21). The bronze statue of the 2nd century BC and a statue of Poseidon were discovered in the vicinity of Cape Artemision. The horseman and his horse may have been smelted separately. Notice the excellent depiction of the extended muscles of the horse and the expression of agony on the horseman’s face.

- The Adolescent of Antikythera (Room 28). Archaeologists have varying opinions regarding the significance of the statue. The main subject holds a spherical object in his hand. Some archaeologists claim that the statue depicts the god Pan holding an apple, while others claim that it is the statue of Perseus holding the head of Andromeda (340 BC). It was found in a shipwreck in the vicinity of Antikythera in 1900.

- The head of Hygeia (Sculpture rooms). Discovered in the temple of Aia Athena in Tegea the head of Hygeia was apparently part of a statue (350-340 BC), attributed to sculptor Scopas. You will recognise the head of Hygeia (the goddess of health), which has been reproduced in photographs.

- Marble votive bas-relief (Sculpture rooms). Dimitra, Persephone and Asklepios. Persephone stands to the left, holding two torches on her right hand. In front of her sits Dimitra and to her right stands Asklepios. To the right are six supplicants who, according to the inscription, dedicated the sculpture to Asklepios and the two Eleusinian goddesses. Their names are carved on the pedestal encompassed by crowns made of olive branches.

- The statuette of Zeus (Bronze rooms). The statuette of the Zeus casting lightning from Dodoni. Notice the stance of the god as he prepares to cast lightning. It is the same as Poseidon of Artemision.

- Statuette of Pharaoh Savaka (Room 41). Dating since 700 B.C, the Pharaoh is represented kneeling down with extended arms. His name is engraved on his belt brooch and he is wearing the crown of the Nubian Pharaoh.

- The exhibition of Thera (Room 48). The main exhibits of the exhibition are the frescoes, which are a valuable source of information on life in the Aegean in the Bronze Age. They were discovered at Akrotiri (Cape) in Thera (Santorini). They are the earliest examples of large-scale painting in Europe.

  - The fresco of spring: Depicts a rocky landscape with vivid red lilies and swallows, some flying in pairs some on their own.

  - The fresco of the fisherman: One of the best preserved frescoes, it depicts a nude fisherman holding two strings of fish.

  - The fresco of two children boxing: Two children boxing. The child standing to the left wears boxing gloves and earrings. Notice their almond-shaped eyes.

- Epigraphical Museum.
  A section of the Archaeological Museum, with a separate entrance. (Tositsa 1) Displaying 14,000 inscriptions from Greece and Asia Minor, it is a leading epigraph museum.
Some of the most significant exhibits are listed below:

- The Moschoforos. The exceptional statue of a bearded youth (6th century B.C) is carrying a calf on his shoulders, a sacrifice to goddess Athena.

- Alexander the Great. The Head of Alexander the Great which was found near Erechtheion. It is speculated that the statue was made by sculptor Leochares, after the visit of the Macedonian king to the city, following the battle of Chaeroneia (339 B.C).

- The daughter of Antenor. The marble statue which dates back to 525 B.C is famous for its monumental grandeur (2m high), its expressiveness and austere facial expression.

- The Archaic Kores. The statues of the maidens who were dedicated to goddess Athena for a long period of time. No two maidens were alike, their varying hair styles and the drapery of their robes give the visitor the chance to admire the development of the sculpture in ancient Greece.

- Sculptures decorating the Parthenon (444-432 B.C). Creation of the sculptor Phidias, the sculptures are unique masterpieces of works of art in the history of all times. Among others, one would find sections of the frieze depicting the Panathenaean procession, the Olympian gods and certain metopes depicting scenes of the Centauromachy (battle of centaurs), the Giantomachy (war of giants), the Amazonomachy (battle of Amazons) and the Trojan War.

- The Caryatids. The statues of the beautiful priestesses were used for supporting the roof of the southern balcony of the Erechtheion (420 B.C). Apparently they were named after the women of Caryes (an ancient city of Arcadia in the Peloponnese), who are thought to have been the models of certain statues. During the Turkish Domination the Caryatids were also referred to as Petrified Princesses or the Maidens of the Castle.

THE new ACROPOLIS MUSEUM

It houses priceless finds from the Acropolis monuments that represent its history and function as the most important religious centre of ancient Athens. On the main level, the visitors can see extended remnants of the ancient city, revealed with the excavations that are displayed under the specially-made glass floor, as well as significant finds deriving from the slopes of Acropolis. On the first level there are finds from the Acropolis during the Mycenaean and Geometric era, exhibition of archaic items, architectural structures and sculptures from Propylaea, from the temple of Athena Nike and Erechtheion, as well as works dating from the late ancient period to the early Christian years. On the second level you can find the restaurant, the Museum’s shop and book store, balconies with the view of the exhibits on the main and first level as well as a digital media area. Finally on the third level (the Parthenon room) are displayed the frieze, the metopes and the temple’s pediments. The museum also offers an area for occasional exhibitions and cultural events, an amphitheatre, an internet hall and an information centre.

132. The portrait of Alexander the Great. It was found near Erechtheion (1886). Attributed to the sculptor Leochares or Lysippos (c. 336 B.C.).
It is located in an old silk mill which was converted into the multicentre for cultural events “Athinais” in the Votanikos area (near Gazi). The objects exhibited present the evolution of Cypriot art over a period of 9,000 years (from the Neolithic Era until the end of the Middle Ages), depicting the unique character of Cypriot civilisation. A significant number of the exhibits comes from the archaeological collection of the scientific foundation founded by the Pierides family.

THE ARCHAEOLOGICAL COLLECTIONS IN THE METRO

The biggest excavation ever in Greece was dug at the time of the construction of the metropolitan railway of Athens (1993-2000). Some of the approximately 50,000 finds that were uncovered in these excavations are exhibited in specially designed spaces in the metro stops “Panepistimio”, “Syntagma”, “Akropolí”, “Evangélimos” and “Monastiraki.”

MUSEUM OF DIACHRONIC ART

It is located in an old silk mill which was converted into the multicentre for cultural events “Athinais” in the Votanikos area (near Gazi). The objects exhibited present the evolution of Cypriot art over a period of 9,000 years (from the Neolithic Era until the end of the Middle Ages), depicting the unique character of Cypriot civilisation. A significant number of the exhibits comes from the archaeological collection of the scientific foundation founded by the Pierides family.

THE GOULANDRIS MUSEUM OF CYCLADIC AND ANCIENT GREEK ART

The well-organised museum was founded with the purpose of housing the “Goulandris” private collection of Cycladic Art. It is one of the leading museums in Athens.

Exhibits. On the 1st floor you will find various relics of Cycladic civilisation, while on the 2nd floor are miniatures and other objects of the same period. On the 3rd floor there is a collection of antiquities of the Cypriot civilisation as well as other temporary exhibits, where as the 4th floor houses the ancient Greek art collection of K.Politis and the permanent exhibition “Scenes of everyday life in ancient times”, where the visitor has the opportunity to ‘visit’ the public and private life in ancient Athens by means of special films and three-dimensional virtual reality representations, associated with the 142 objects belonging to the permanent collections of the museum. In 1992 a new wing was added to the Museum, at the Stathatos Mansion (page 78). In the New Wing you can see the Academy of Athens collection of ancient Greek art. On the basement of the building at N. Douka Str you can buy replicas of museum exhibits.

THE NUMISMATIC MUSEUM

It is one of the five most important numismatic museums in the world. It displays more than 600,000 coins, “treasures” (closed coin collections), standard weights, metals and precious stones, from the ancient Greek period, the Roman period, Byzantium, the western middle Ages, and modernity.
The Museum of Islamic Art.

It is housed in a neoclassical building complex dating from the beginning of the 20th century, consisting of two residential buildings and located in the Kerameikos area (page 41). It is one of the leading Islamic Art collections in the world. It displays more than 8,000 exhibits from Europe, the Middle East, North Africa, Persia and India, representative of the development of Islamic art from the early Islamic age to the 19th century.

Exhibitions. Sometimes the Benaki Museum holds important exhibitions in the central building or in its other buildings.

The Byzantine and Christian Museum

This Museum can rightfully take pride in possessing one of the leading collections of Byzantine icons in the world. Its exhibits, that represent 1700 years of Byzantine art and architecture (3rd to 20th centuries), include 25,000 ecclesiastical objects from Greece, the Balkans, Cyprus, Constantinople and Russia, classified in 11 collections: Sculptures, Mosaics, Frescoes, Replicas and the Loverdos’ Collection (includes manuscripts, woodcarving crafts, vestments, portable icons etc). At the same time, the surrounding area of 17.5 acres, serves as a park with an open-air amphitheatre, gift shop, restaurant-café and recreational facilities. Presently, there are plans in consideration so that the above mentioned park would connect to the adjacent archaeological site of “Aristotle’s’ Lyceum” (that is the school where the philosopher taught since its establishment in 335 B.C until 323 B.C). The Museum also organises significant temporary exhibitions as well as educational programs.

The National Historical Museum

Located at Kolokotroni Square (page 39). The exhibits, displayed in 16 galleries, cover the period dating back to the last years prior to the fall of Constantinopolis (15th century) to the beginning of World War II; where as the largest part of the exhibition pertains to the characters and historic events of the Greek revolution of 1821.

The Benaki Museum

One of the leading museums in Athens, the Benaki Museum is well worth a visit. It was founded by patrician Ant. Benakis (1873-1954) and inaugurated in 1931. It displays more than 45,000 exhibits of the collection of Ant. Benakis and other donors, organised in six collections.

Greece at the Benaki Museum.

This section comprises of various categories with over 33,000 works, representative of Greek culture from antiquity to the creation of the modern Greek state and 1922 (the Asia Minor Disaster).

Hadjikyriakou-Ghika Gallery.

Granted by the famous Greek painter, the Hadjikyriakou-Ghika Gallery is an annex of the museum. Housed in the building where the artist lived 40 years (at Kriezotou Str 3), the gallery displays a representative example of his work.

Toys and Childhood.

Included are 15,000 old toys and children’s objects from Greece and the area of Greater Hellenism, from antiquity to 1970 – and Europe, America, Africa, and the countries of the East.

Coptic Art.

A large collection of fabrics, metalwork and woodwork, representing the production of Egypt in the 5th and 6th centuries.

Chinese Art.

Displays more than 1,300 exhibits (most of them were donated by G. Eumorfopoulos), representative of the Chinese civilisation from the 3rd Millennium BC to the 19th century (among others, vases, funeral statuettes, porcelain, miniatures and semi precious stones).
characteristic types of artillery guns, as well as various models of war aircrafts, some of which you can enter.

THE NATIONAL GALLERY-MUSEUM ALEXANDROS SOUTZOS

It is the leading Gallery in Greece. The core of the collection comprises of 117 paintings, listed in 1878. Later the Gallery was enriched by private collections granted by Al. Soutsos, Eur. Koutlidis, and other Greek painters and collectors. A number of important works of art, such as the “Crucifixion” by Lorenzo Veneziano and a collection of engravings of the 16th and 20th centuries were acquired by the Gallery.

Exhibitions. The National Gallery mounts periodic exhibitions featuring important Greek and foreign artists, often held in parallel with other events.

National Glyptotheca of Greece. The museum is housed in two renovated buildings (former royal stables) with a beautiful surrounding area occupying 6500 m² in Alsos Stratou (district of Goudi). One hundred and fifty Greek sculptures dating to the 19th and 20th century are exhibited in the museum’s indoor and outdoor areas. Periodic plastic arts exhibitions featuring Greek and foreign artists are also held.

National Museum of Contemporary Art

Accommodated in an old beer factory (“Fix”), the Museum opened in 2000. It displays the works of Greek and foreign artists, and holds important temporary exhibitions. The complete renovation of the building and the installation of its permanent collections will be completed in 2011.

Note: Until the renovation of the museum’s main building is completed, its temporary exhibitions will be held in various other exhibition halls. For this reason it would be wise to contact the museum for specific information before visiting.
MUSEUM OF THE CITY OF ATHENS (VOUROS-EUTAXIAS FOUNDATION)

The museum is accommodated in a neoclassical building constructed in 1833 (Vourou Mansion, at Klathmos Square), which was used as King Otto’s temporary palace from 1836-1842. You will find here paintings and engravings connected to the history of the Greek capital, mainly from the early 18th century to the 20th century. Moreover, furniture belonging to the first King of Greece, Otto is displayed.

THE JEWISH MUSEUM OF GREECE

Founded in 1977, its collection comprises of 8,000 authentic pieces, photographs, documents and archives that refer to the history of 2,300 years of Jewish life in Greece. Moreover this permanent exhibition depicts themes such as the Synagogue, worship utensils, the Synagogue calendar, traditional costumes, the Holocaust, the cycle of life, the history and tradition of Greek Jews.

THE GENNADIOS LIBRARY COLLECTION

The collection includes valuable manuscripts and books, documents, periodicals, maps of the most important periods of Greek literature. Moreover, you will find here a Byzantine library, a reading room and an exhibition room. Well worth seeing is the collection of the personal objects of Lord Byron (golden clock, laurel wreath, seals, etc).

THE FOUNDATION OF THE HELLENIC WORLD

It was established in 1993, with the intention to inform the public and preserve Greek history and culture by means of modern technology. In order to fulfil this objective the Center of Civilisation named “Hellenic Cosmos” was established. “Hellenic Cosmos”, presents among other things Greek history on the Internet from the Stone Age until today, digitally reproducing ancient monuments and spaces, projecting historical and cultural documentaries, organising exhibitions and educational programmes and staging cultural tours by means of the Virtual Reality systems: “Tholos,” “Ark” and “Magic Screen.”

THE VORRES MUSEUM

Six thousand exhibits, representing 40 centuries of Greek history, are displayed in the Museum. The area of the Museum is 4,500 square metres. It is divided in two sections. In the first section you will find a collection of modern Greek art comprising of paintings and sculptures of the late 20th century. The second section is housed in a complex of two traditional village houses and a building, which was formerly used as a winepress. You will find here household objects, such as carpets, furniture, millstones, and ceramic art works from various areas of Greece. Moreover, in the section are exhibited oil paintings and engravings connected to historical events, and certain archaeological finds.

PLANETARIUM

The digital “planetarium” established by the Eugenides Foundation has a dome of 25m in diameter and 950 sq.m surface area. It is one of the biggest and better equipped digital planetariums in the world. The ultra modern projection room has a capacity of 280 persons, with specially designed reclining, interactive participation seats, thus taking the visitor to a unique virtual reality journey to the universe. It also has 1,800 sq.m. of available exhibition space, modern congress center and a scientific library.

THE GOULANDRIS NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM (“GAIA” CENTRE)

In this important Museum you can learn about the interdependence of living organisms. The museum displays rich collections of insects, mammals, serpents, birds, and shells, and rocks and fossils from Greece. Moreover, it organises seminars and lectures and holds temporary exhibitions connected to environmental issues relating to Greece and the world.

“Gaia” Centre. Recently, the Museum opened the Centre of Environmental Research and Education “Gaia.” Visitors are offered a glimpse of the workings of nature. Educational programmes are also held at the building. The area of the building is 12,500 square metres.

Greater Attica, an area of natural beauty, has been since antiquity one of the most important cultural centre of Greece. With important historical and archaeological sites, unique Byzantine monuments, mountains, fertile plains and clean beaches – all easily accessible from Athens – Attica is an attractive destination for day trips, offering an escape from the busy streets of Athens.
1 MOUNT PARNITHA

Parnitha was first inhabited during the Mycenaean period; it always constituted a key-point in Attica’s defence, as it was the most fortified mountain in ancient Greece.

Being the highest mountain in Attica (1,400 m) and one of the most beautiful mountains of Greece, it is located 30 kilometres northwest of Athens. Mount Parnitha’s National Park has an area of more than 300 square kilometres. It is a home to 30 species of mammals (deer, hares, foxes, etc) and 120 bird species (many of which are endemic); while more than 800 kinds of herbs and plants occur, (including 17% of the flora of Greece). Walk on one of hundreds of footpaths, take a mountain bike ride on a designated trail in the area of Aytios Merkourios, explore dozens of small caves and visit a lot of beautiful churches and monasteries (Aytios Triada, Moni Kleistos, Moni Aytios Kyrianos etc). At the location Bafi (alt. 1,160 m tel. 210 2469050) and Flambouri (alt. 1,158 m tel. 210 2464666), two mountain resorts operate offering a capacity of 50 people each. The mountain attracts climbing fans (locations “Arna”, “Katebasma Gounas”, “Flambouri”, “Korakofolia” and “Megalo Armeni”). Moreover, one can visit the luxury hotel “Mont Parnes” and challenge his luck in the casino.

2 MOUNT PENTELI

Penteli is a densely vegetated mountain with springs and attractive locations. From the top, you have a spectacular view of the city as well as the Euboean Bay. Penteli is a well known source of marble, as the Pentelic Marble was the main material used for the construction of all attic architectural and sculptural marvels of the classical period. The unique white colour of Pentelic marble was well known in antiquity. Pentelic marble was an important export product of ancient Athens. Later it was used in the construction of the Panathenaean (Kallimarmaro) Stadium, which was the location of the 1st modern Olympics (1896), revived by the French baron Pierre de Coubertin. The locations Daveli’s Cave and “Dytikos toixos” (Western Wall) are ideal for climbing. For information contact the Greek Federation for Hiking-Climbing tel. 210 3645904)

THE SIGHTS:

The Penteli Monastery. The wealthiest and biggest monastery in Greece, Penteli Monastery was founded in 1578 by Archbishop Timotheos. It is dedicated to the Dormition of the Virgin. A number of buildings were added to the original structure. Sections of the original building were later reconstructed. Recently a multitude of new buildings were added for the monks staying at the monastery. Visitors may see the original hospital, fountain and some of the cells.

Palace of the Duchess of Plaisance. Impressive 19th century mansion which looks like a gothic castle and was built for S. de Marbois-Lebrun, known as the “Duchess of Plaisance”. The building which now housis the most popular destination in the vicinity of Athens, combining natural beauty with a multitude of archaeological finds and important Byzantine monasteries.

THE SIGHTS:

The Ayios Ioannis Kynigos Monastery. Located at the northern peak of Hymettos, with a view of Athens and the Mesogeia Plain, the monastery was possibly built in the 12th century. Only the central church (built of plinth), which has been modified, and the main entrance (13th century), remains of the old monastery. The monastery accommodates a women’s commune. Access to the monastery from Agia Paraskevi (open 8:00-12:00 pm and 16:00-19:00).

The Ayios Ioannis Theologos Monastery. The monastery is located in the vicinity of the perimeter of the Papagou suburb. You can get there via Anastaseos Str. The monastery was built on the site of an ancient building (you will find here, among others, ancient column capitals, pedestals). The main cruciform church, is dated to the late Byzantine period (13th-15th century). The monastery accommodates a women’s commune. It is closed at mid-day (12:00-16:00).

The Asteriou Monastery. Located north of Ayios Ioannis Theologos, on a wooded slope, Asteriou Monastery is thought to have been founded in the 5th century. The building complex, which has been preserved, includes a four-side fort-style court, two wings with buildings and a main church, built in cruciform style, with interesting frescoes of the 16th century. A domed cistern with a fountain from the period of Turkish occupation is preserved. The monastery has been designated a historical monument (open 08:00-15:00).

The Kaisariani Monastery. Built in the 11th century AD, the monastery is located in an idyllic location on the slopes of Mount Hymettos, nearby Kaisariani suburb. According to Greek mythology, the god Hephaistos often came here. The riverbed of the river Ilisos, the sacred river of Aphrodite, is located on a hill above the monastery. The monastery was built on the ruins of a roman and late ancient Greek temple. Four columns of the ancient temple now support the dome of the church. In the late 12th century and early 13th century the monastery prospered and became an influential cultural and spiritual centre. The church of the monastery, dedicated to the presentation of the Virgin Mary, is built in the Hellenic cruciform style, and decorated with frescoes of the 16th century. On the western wall of the yard you will find a spring. The water gushes from the mouth of a marble goat. Formerly it was thought that the water cured infertility. It is thought that they have “magic” qualities. There is a spring at the stoup, a sanctuary on the northwest wall of the yard. Kaisariani Monastery is an excellent starting point for a hiking trip.

Ayios Ioannis Kareas Monastery. The monastery, founded in 1550, is located a few hundred metres from the Kareas area. The main church, a two-storey wing of cells and a small one-floor building on the northern side is all that remains of the old complex. After the 1970’s major reconstruction work was done on the old monastery and a new two-floor wing of cells was built. It is a women’s monastery (opening hours 08:00-12:00 and 16:00-20:00).

Panos Cave (Nymfolyptou). Located in the southeastern area of the mountain (3 kilometres north of the suburb of Vari). It was dedicated to Pan. The deity was worshiped there from 600 BC to 150 AC. Worth seeing are the unique sculptures and epigrams preserved on engravings in the rocks. The most important is an epigram by the sculptor Archedimos. Archaeologists researching the multiple finds (among others, clay oil lamps, stone offerings) deduced that the cave was used as a place of worship also in the Christian period.

The Botanical Garden. Some 5 kilometres from the centre of Athens, you can enjoy a walk in an area with 3 million pine trees, cypress trees, fir trees, poplar trees, plane trees, and oak trees. Moreover, in the Botanical Garden are thousands of birds and wild flora. It is the ideal scene for a long walk and a picnic. You will find picnic tables and benches, after about 20 minutes of walking from Kaisariani Monastery.

The Daphni Monastery

Well worth your visit is the Daphni Monastery (11 kilometres from Athens, near the Haidari suburb, the Athens - Corinth Highway), which is linked to ancient mythology, the classical period, and Byzantine history. The Monastery is thought to be the most important Byzantine monument in the Athens area, while the mosaics are thought to be masterpieces of the golden age of Byzantine art.

Built on hallowed ground. In the 2nd century AD, the geographer Pausanias referred to the Temple of Daphnaios or Daphneios Apollo, located in a sacred laurel thicket, by the Iera Odos (Iera Odos in Greek means Sacred Road), leading from Athens to Eleusina. The Goths destroyed the temple in 395 AD. Later, the Byzantine emperors banned idolatry. The Christians acquired the location and built a church, using the materials of the old temple. They selected this location because it was on the road to Eleusina, where the idolaters held the Eleusinian Mysteries (page 115). In 1100 AD a new octagonal church was built. The monastery was modified several times before the 19th century. In the Greek Revolution it was refuge of Greek freedom fighters.

The myths. According to mythology, the location was named after the ancient temple and the laurel thicket. According to another myth, Daphni was named after Queen Daphne, whose horse was shipwrecked near the port of Eleusina. Queen Daphne was saved, and as an expression of gratitude to the god Apollo, she built the temple. The temple was later destroyed by the Goths. However, according to another myth, the place was named after the nymph Daphne, who escaped to the location from the god Apollo and was metamorphosed into a laurel bush.

The sights:

The mosaics. Daphni is famous for its unique and beautiful mosaics, created in the 11th century AD. You will see them on the walls, the dome, the arms of the cross, the roof and the altar. Seventy-six of the subjects of the mosaics refer to the life of Christ and the Virgin Mary. Moreover, you can see mosaics depicting saints and prophets.

Christ Pantokrator. The central figure on the dome is the Pantokrator, encompassed by a circle symbolising the sky, while the golden font symbolises Paradise. Pantokrator’s face is austere. He looks at the people on earth and judges their actions. He is surrounded by the prophets of the Old Testament.

The Assumption of the Virgin. The mosaic is half destroyed. It is located on the western wall of the Church. Notice the angel descending from the sky to receive the soul of the Virgin. He is thoughtful. His hands are gracingly covered by fabric.

Diomedes Botanical Garden. It’s located near the monastery. It’s the biggest of its kind in the Eastern Mediterranean, with a total area of 465 acres. More than 3,000 species of trees and flowers, originating from Greece and abroad, are planted in 50 acres, while the rest of it preserves to a great extent its forestal character (free entrance from 401 Iera Odos, tel. 210 5811557).
The Central port.
The ancient name of the central port was Kantharos. At present it is the centre of the city. You will find here ships to all the islands of the Aegean (excepting for the Sporades) and Crete. Walk around and look at the passenger and freight ships, and the arrivals and departures of merchandise and people from the entire world. On Vasiliades Coast the new modern building of the Ministry of Commercial Shipping, is erected. In the Freatyda area parts of the ancient Walls of Piraeus (the coastal section) are preserved.

The Zea marina.
In this marina, some of the most impressive yachts and cruise ships anchor. At the seafront are restaurants, tavernas, bars and shops, catering to the needs of passengers. You will find Flying Dolphins (hovercrafts) serving lines to the Argosaronikos Gulf. Adjacent to the Archaeological Museum is the Ancient Theatre of Zea (4th - 3rd century BC).

PIRAEUS (PIREAS)
Most people have heard at least once the song “The youth of Piraeus,” composed by M. Hadjidakis, with Melina Mercouri singing in the film “Never on Sunday.” However, many people don’t know the place, which the film and the movie made famous – the city and port of Piraeus.

The history of Piraeus.
Piraeus is encompassed almost on all sides by sea. The pace of life of Piraeus is linked to the sea. In antiquity it was an island. Travellers were ferried across to the mainland (in ancient Greek the word for ferried is diepairounto). That perhaps explains the origin of its name.

The architect Hippodamus designed the urban planning of Piraeus in the mid 5th century BC. Hippodamus plans were used as the guidelines for the reconstruction of the city in 1834. Themistocles was the first person to realise the importance of the role the city could play for Athens. He made Piraeus Athens’s leading port, relegating the Bay of Faliron, which the Athenians used before the 5th century BC.

Seeking to develop a fortified port for the city of Athens, from 493 to 479 BC he built the wall of Piraeus. Later Pericles completed the fortification, building the Long Walls, which protected both sides of the road from Piraeus to Athens. In the Middle Ages, Piraeus was named Porto Leone, after a giant stone lion, guarding the entrance of the harbour. Today it is the main port of Athens, the biggest port in Greece, one of the leading ports in the Mediterranean, an important centre of the merchant marine, industry and transportation.

The centres of Piraeus are its three ports: the central port, the Zea marina, and Mikrolimano.
The port was protected by the goddess Mounihia Artemis. At present it is a popular location, attracting people from all over Attica. It is a beautiful little harbour with fishing boats, small boats and luxury yachts. If you like fish and seafood, have lunch or dinner at one of its famous tavernas.

Kastella. An elegant and popular neighbourhood of Piraeus, built on a hill also known as Profitis Ilias. Walk to the top of the hill, and admire the alleys with picturesque houses. The view of the main port, Zea and Mikrolimano is unique. In the area is the open-air theatre "Weakeio," which hosts important cultural events in summer.

The Municipal Theatre. It dominates one of the central squares (Korai Square). It was built in the 1890’s in the neoclassical style by architect I. Lazarimos and has a horseshoe shaped, Italian style hall (pit, galleries and balconies) of total capacity of 1,300 spectators. The outside area is one of the most frequented places, a meeting place of residents of Piraeus.

The I.S.A.P. station (metro station "Pireas"). The stately eclectic building with the arched dome (1929), replicates the relevant European stations of the period. Recently the interior was completely renovated. On one of the walls are displayed the works of the students of the School of Fine Arts.

The Archaeological Museum. It features mostly sculptures found in Piraeus at the coast of Attica. The exhibits, presented in 10 halls, relate to the history, and the rise and fall of the ancient city. Notice the bronze trident-shaped piston of a trireme, the metrological bas-relief (room 1), the four rare bronze statues discovered in Piraeus in 1959 (the Ancient Kouros Apollo, two statues of Artemis, Athena of Piraeus with a height of 2.35 m), the bronze, ancient tragedy mask of the 4th century BC (Rooms 3-4), the sanctuary of Cybele (room 5), the collection of tomb sculptures (room 6) and the monument of Kallithea bearing a height of 7m (rooms 7-8).

The Nautical Museum. The Nautical Museum is located at Akti Moutsopoulou. Its exhibits cover about 3,000 years of Greek nautical history.

Getting There:
You can take the metro and get off at the station “Pireas.” There are bus lines from Athens to Akti Xaveriou in Piraeus. One line has its terminus at Syntagma Square (number 040) and another line has its terminus at Athinas Str in the Omonia Square area (number 049).
SOUNIO

The sanctuary of Sounio (the famous temple of Poseidon is here) is the most important sanctuary of Attica. Situated at a unique site (cape Sounio) the sanctuary is one of the major sights of Greece. It is one hour’s drive from the centre of Athens (68 km). The route to Sounio follows the coastline of the Saronic Gulf passing through the tourist resorts of Varkiza, Ayia Marina, Lagonissi, Saronida, Anavissos, et al. Look out of the window of your car or bus and you will enjoy the sparkling blue sea. If you travel by car, you can stop and go for a swim in a organised beach or one of the beautiful little bays located at many places on your way. You will also find here a multitude of cafes, tavernas serving fresh fish and ouzo restaurants.

The Temple of Poseidon. At this site the ancient Greeks worshipped the god of the sea, Poseidon. Preserved are 15 Doric style columns (originally there were 34). The temple was built during the Golden Age of Pericles on the ruins of a preceding temple. We do not know who the architect is. However, it is thought that it is the architect who designed the Theseion.

Its dimensions were 31.12 x 13.47m.; it had a frieze with a sculpted decoration above the architrave of the vestibule. Following an examination of the finds unearthed in the area archaeologists have deduced that Poseidon was worshipped here before the 5th century BC.

The temple of goddess Athena. Worth your visit is the temple of Athena Sounia, located at a distance of 400 metres from the temple of Poseidon. You will find here the substructures of two temples: a large temple built at around 470 BC or during the Peloponnesian War (431-404), and a small temple. Archaeologists have diverging opinions regarding the small temple: some believe it is the ruin of an old temple dedicated to Athena, and built in the period 600-550 BC, other believe the temple was dedicated to Artemis.

LAVRIO

Located approximately 9 kilometres northeast of Sounio is Lavrio, a small picturesque town with a multitude of neoclassical houses and mansions, which was famous in antiquity for its mines. The mines of Lavrio closed in the 1970’s. At the perimeter of the city is the Technological Cultural Park of Lavrio, including industrial units of the period 1875-1940. Worth a visit is the Mineralogical Museum (Andr. Kordelas Avenue). At the seafront are a multitude of traditional cafes and fish taverns, with delicious snacks. Some 4 kilometres north of Lavrio is the archaeological site of Thorikos, one of the oldest settlements of Attica. Excavations have revealed the most ancient theatre within the Hellenic territory, parts of the settlement, metal work facilities, a 4th century B.C tower, cemeteries and a sanctuary of goddess Demeter. In the area encompassed by Lavrio and Sounio is the Sounio National Park, with natural archaeological and cultural attractions.

GETTING THERE:
Two bus lines link Sounio to Athens: one route via, the coastal road of Varkiza and Legrena, and another via the inland of Attica, namely Agia Paraskevi, Koropi and Lavrio. The terminus of both bus lines is located at Mavromataion Str in the vicinity of Pedion tou Areos in Athens (tel. 210 8230179). Moreover, travel agents organise day trips to the temple of Poseidon.
Demeter and Persephone.
The citizens of Eleusina worshipped Demeter, the goddess of nature, spring and agriculture. The myth of Demeter and her daughter Persephone is, like most myths, allegorical. It refers to the rebirth of plant life, following its “death” in winter, and the eternal longing for immortality. According to a hymn of the 7th century BC, one day the earth opened up in two, Pluto, the god of the underworld appeared, and seized the young Persephone. He took her to his kingdom and made her his wife. Her mother looked for her in despair. She searched for her nine days and nights, without success. She arrived despairing at the doorstep of the palace of Keleos, king of Eleusina. She became the nurse of his son, not revealing that she is a goddess. When her real identity was revealed, she requested that a temple be built in her honour. She remained in the temple, devastated by the loss of her daughter. The following year, not a seed grew on the world. Zeus was worried. He sent Hermes to appeal to Pluto. A compromise was reached: Persephone would remain in the kingdom of Pluto 1/3 of the year, and the remaining time she could stay with her mother. Overjoyed, Demeter allowed the plants and flowers to grow, and the earth became fruitful.

The Mysteries of Eleusina. The Eleusinian mysteries were named mysteries because the most important part of the event, involved intense mysticism. We don’t know much about the worship of Demeter by thousands of people over 15 centuries. The Great Eleusinian Mysteries had their starting point in Eleusina. The remarkable procession moved on to Athens through the Sacred Way and headed by the priestess and the sacred symbols of the worship of Demeter. The Mysteries were concluded with ceremonies in honour of the dead. After the ceremony, Athenians returned to Athens. The Eleusinian mysteries were abolished in the 4th century BC by the Byzantine emperor Theodosios.
ATTICA ZOOLOGICAL PARK / MARATHON

160. The Attica Zoological Park is home to 27 reptile species, 304 bird species and 50 mammal species.

7.1 > MEGARA

The Archaeological Museum.

21 km. west of Eleusina is the town of Megara. A significant town in antiquity, it is the birthplace of Euclides, Theogones and Eupalinos. Its decline started with the end of the Peloponnesian War. Its interesting archaeological museum houses terracotta and marble findings from the greater area, covering the chronological period from the 6th century B.C. till the Roman era. Among the most important exhibits are the terracotta bust of Demeter (5th century B.C.), a terracotta female bust (5th cent. B.C.), a spout with the shape of a lion’s head (around 350 B.C.), a female statue wearing a peplos-veil (325-300 B.C.), et al.

8 ATTICA ZOOLOGICAL PARK (SPATA)

One of the largest zoos in the Balkans spreading across 128000 m² in the area of Yialou (Spata). A visit there is a unique experience especially for children. It consists of: the “Ornithological Park” boasting the third largest collection of birds worldwide (1500 birds from 300 different species), farm animals and large cages-minatures of three continents: the “World of Reptiles” with pythons, boa, crocodiles, etc; the “Greek Fauna” featuring rare animals of Greece (brown bear, wolves, wild cats, Lynx pardinus, lutra-lutra, etc); the “African Savanna” (giraffes, zebras, antelopes, jaguars, snow leopards, white lions, etc); the section with the monkeys and apes and the “Forest of Monkeys” where visitors share the same space with monkeys; the feline section (tigers, servals, etc); the section with the hipopotamus, alligators, etc. The zoo is open to the public daily from 9:00 a.m. until sunset.

9 MARATHON

Well worth your visit is Marathon, with an archaeological area and museum. Marathon is one of the most beautiful locations in Attica. The way to Marathon is beautiful. On your way you will pass by fields, vineyards, olive groves, wild vegetation, as well as man-made Lake Marathon with its impressive dam with marble coating, built in 1929. All over this area you will find a multitude of beautiful beaches where you can swim and sunbathe. The most famous beach is Schinias (an exceptionally beautiful location which has been declared a National Park), which has a pine forest bordering on the sandy shore. You can combine a visit to Marathon with a visit the archaeological area of Ramounoda. (12 kilometres from Marathon).

The battle of Marathon.
The main source of information regarding the battle of Marathon is the ancient historian Herodotus. According to Herodotus, the Persian fleet disembarked 100,000 troops in Marathon in 490 BC. Facing this immense army were just 11,000 Greek troops (10,000 were from Athens and 1,000 from Plataiai). The Greeks, thanks to the military genius of Miltiades, won the battle. Following the victory, Feidippidis, an Athenian soldier, was sent to bring the good news to the city. He ran all the way from the field of battle to the Market of Athens. He said one word: Nemikikamni (we won), collapsed and passed away. In memory of the event, the modern Marathon covers the distance Feidippidis ran, and is symbolised in the opening ceremony of the Olympic Games.

THE SIGHTS:

The Monument (Tomb) of Marathon. Adjacent to the ancient battle field, at a distance of one kilometre from Marathon’s beach, you will find a unique monument (Tomb), 9m. tall and 50m. in diameter, of the 192 Athenian soldiers who were killed in this famous battle. Nearby (at Mesospori-“Breiza”. Next to the museum, in a lodged area there is a Mid-Hellenic cemetery (2000-1300BC) and in proximity there is the “Tymbos ton Plataeaeon” (tomb of Plataeeon) which includes 11 graves of warriors from Plataeas who fell in the battlefield.

9.1 RAMNOUS
(Kato Souli)
The name of the area is derived from the word ‘ramnos,’ the name of a variety of bushes which cover the area. In antiquity, Ramnous was known for its port and fort. In the archaeological area are the ruins of two temples. The Great temple was dedicated to Nemesis, the goddess of Divine Justice (it was the most important sanctuary of the goddess in ancient Greece). The small temple was dedicated to Themis, the goddess of Justice.
Both temples were built in the 5th century BC. The remains of a fort, theatre, funerary monumments, among others, are preserved. This archaeological site commands a unique view of Euboea and the Euboean Gulf (Gulf of Evoikos).

10 AMPHIAREION
Amphiaraos is one of the least well-known deities of ancient mythology. Nevertheless, he was popular, and twelve templexes and sanctuaries are known to have been dedicated to him.
His popularity was due to his magical and healing qualities.
According to myth, he was not born, but emerged from a spring, located near his temple, in the vicinity of Oropos. He participated in the expedition of the Argonauts, and later in the siege of Thebes by the Argeans. In the latter Zeus intervened, saving Amphiaraos’s life. The most important temple dedicated to Amphiaraos is Amphiareion, located in a gorge on the border of Attica and Boeotia. An ancient theatre with a capacity of 3,000 dominates the area. Notice the five white marble seats around the scene, with sculpted decoration and epigraphs. The temple is located in the vicinity of a spring, mentioned in the myth of Amphiaraos. It was built in the Doric style in the 4th century BC. Most of the ruins in the area were dated to 6th century BC.

GETTING THERE:
Amphiareion is located 48
kilometres from Athens. If you have a car, take the Athens-Lamia National road, and turn right on the road to Oropos.
Two bus lines link Athens to Oropos, both with a stop in the vicinity of the Amphiareion archaeological area. Walk another 3 kilometres from the bus stop to the archaeological site.
Two alternative bus lines link
Athens to Ayioi Apostoloi
Koutouki Cave ranks among the most interesting and rich caves in Greece. Located on the eastern slope of Mount Hymettos, at an altitude of 540 metres, 4 kilometres from Paiania in the Mesogeia area, it has a total area of 3,800 square metres.

VRAVRONA / NORTHWEST ATTICA

Resort area where many Athenians have summer houses. It is an area of natural beauty with large stretches of pine-woods and interesting mountains (Kitheronas, Pastra, Pateras, Geraneia) which are popular for hiking and mountain activities. With numerous beautiful beaches (page 132), traditional villages (Alepohori, Vilia, Kriekouki or Erythres, etc.) and many hotels in all categories.

THE SIGHTS:

Eleutheress. Ancient city of Biotia, conquered by the Athenians during the 6th century B.C. The archaeological site (near the village Vilia) includes foundations of a 4th century

VRAVRONA

Vravirona, with an interesting archaeological site, is well worth a visit. On your way to Vravirona, you will travel through one of the most beautiful areas of Attica, with green fields, vineyards, olive trees, gentle mountain sides, and the coast of the blue Euboean Gulf. In summer, if you don’t like the heat, you can take a dip in the sea. Be sure to follow the signposts leading to Markopoulo and Porto Rafti, then take a turn left at the sign for Vravirona. A few kilometres inland is the archaeological site and the museum on your left.

Artemis Vravirona. Vravirona was dedicated to Artemis, the goddess protector of hunters, animals and the safe birth of humans. Enraged by the murder of two small female bears, Artemis caused an epidemic in Athens. She requested that an oracle tell the Athenians that all girls aged 5 to 10 living in Attica were obliged to worship her. The Athenians obeyed the command of the goddess and brought their little girls to the temple, where they spend their childhood years serving her and participating in the festivals organised there. The girls who went to the temple, were called arktoi (bears). The festivals in honour of the goddess were called Vravirona. Musical performances, athletic competitions and poetry readings were held, among other things, at the festivals.

The Museum. Small and interesting, the museum houses exhibits from the Vravirona area and Anavyssos, Perati and other areas of Attica. These exhibits cover the period from the Bronze Age until the Roman times. The most important finds are the sculptures from the sanctuary of Artemis.

PAIANIA CAVE (Koutouki)

With a large variety of rocks and the multiformity of the stalactites and stalagmites, Night Life

Athens never sleeps. Some people say that Athens is more vibrant at night. Ancient and modern Athens offers more opportunity for nightlife than any other city. You have a lot of options: ancient Greek drama in a theatre dated to the period the play was written, world famous orchestras playing music ranging from Beethoven and jazz in one of the most modern concert halls of Europe, unique musical stages and clubs offering variety and creativity.

The capital of Athens offers nightlife fans special nights out. Whatever you choose to do, you will discover that Athens nightlife offers variety and unique choice, making it possible to enjoy throughout the night. The only problem is that the following day you have to see the sights… You can start your evening out at one of the select restaurants or one of the distinctive Greek tavernas located in every neighbourhood of the city. The atmosphere in Greek restaurants is relaxed and friendly and the food is excellent. You may go to a taverna with live bouzouki music or one of hundreds of popular, modern bars, clubs, disco-bars and bars with live music, featuring all varieties of music.

You can find bars in all central areas, and all the suburbs, (among others, Kifisia, Faliro, Glyfada, Vouliagmeni, Voula, Varkiza).

A night out at place with live bouzouki music is an unforgettable experience. During your visit, you should go to a bouzouki joint, listen to authentic Greek music, sing and dance with the patrons in the joint.

The Saronic Islands

Boats, ferries and flying dolphins depart daily from the port of Piraeus for the splendid islands of the Saronic (Saronikos) Gulf, Salamina, Aegina, Angistri, Hydra, Poros and Spetses. Moreover, tourist offices organise daily cruises to the islands.

GETTING THERE:
If you travel by car, take the Athens-Corinth National Road and after Eleusina get off and follow the road to Mandra (approx. distances from Athens: Vilia 54 km, Alepohori 60 km, Erythres 61 km). You can also use the intercity bus service. Buses to Erythres, Porto Yerminó and Megara leave from the “Thission” metro station (tel. 210 3244448).
You will be surprised at the bargains you will find in Athens. Golden and silver jewellery are popular, given the international renown of Greek designers. A multitude of jewellers shops most of them located in the Syntagma Square and Kolonaki areas, have a wide selection of reproductions of ancient Greek jewels and traditional and modern designs. Most of them are hand made by local craftsmen. Moreover, at a multitude of Greek shops you can find silver and turquoise filigrans, most of them made in the city of Ioannina, in Epirus, with attractive traditional motifs.

Worth a visit is the Ilias Lalaounis Jewellery Museum. The Museum houses more than 3,000 designs of jewels. Some 45 collections representing the history of Greek jewellery inspired by the art and architecture of eleven civilisations, nature, technology and biology.

You may be interested in the famous furs of Kastoria, the product of an art craft that was perfected over the centuries. In the Syntagma Square area is a multitude of fur shops offering a wide range of coats, jackets and fur hats, with classic and modern designs.

You may also find bargain souvenirs, hand made goods and bronze vases. Athens has been famous for its copper utensils, clay and ceramic goods since the Archaic Age. The ideal place to find unique items of Greek ceramic art and pottery is the suburb of Maroussi, where most designers and ceramicists have shops offering hand made goods.

You may also find bargain quality woven wool and cotton jumpers with unique designs and leather goods and shoes made by Greek designers. You will find these items at Ermou Str and Kolonaki Square.

You will also find an abundance of antiques in various shops in Kolonaki, Syntagma and Monastiraki. You may find various kinds of antiques, such as furniture, hand painted wooden trunks, attractive miniatures, and small decorative items.

Here you will find valuable hand made heavy carpets and rugs made on wooden looms, and a wide range of embroideries, embroidered tapestries, hand made cushions and bags, decorative wall embroideries and uniquely charming, authentic designs of Greek popular art.

GREEK CUISINE AND WINE

Greek cuisine has a unique flavour. During your stay in Greece you will be pleasantly surprised by culinary specialities. “Mousaka,” “souvlaki,” “Greek salad,” is all most people know of Greek cuisine. However, you will discover that Greek cuisine comprises of a large variety of dishes fully meeting the culinary appetites of meat-eaters and vegetarians.

This is not surprising considering that Greece is the country where symposiums originated and the homeland of the Epikureian philosophers. Archestratos wrote the first cookbooks in history in 330 BC reminding readers that cuisine is a mark of civilisation. Greece has a gastronomic tradition of 4,000 years. However, like most national cuisines, Greek cuisine was influenced by neighbouring countries, from the East and the West.

Traditional Greek Cuisine

Greek cuisine is unique because it combines the following features: unique ingredients, Greek dietary habits, the custom of making a meal a social event, and the pleasant atmosphere of Greece.

The basic ingredients. Greek cuisine has four secrets. Good fresh ingredients, the proper use of aromatic herbs and spices, the famous Greek olive oil and simplicity. Greek olive oil deserves a special mention. It accompanies nearly all Greek dishes. It is usually used in large measures. Greece has high quality, healthy olive oil. The artificial cultivation of vegetables is not widespread in Greece because of the mildness of the climate. Most vegetables are cultivated in a natural way, preserving their aroma and taste. You will be delighted by the taste of Greek tomatoes, cabbage, carrots, onions, parsley, and garlic, not to mention fresh Greek fruit, such as, among others, grapes, apricots, peaches, cherries, melons, and watermelons. The aromatic herbs, which most Greeks pick in the mountains or the country, have a unique flavour, aroma and therapeutic qualities. You will be delighted by the intoxicating aroma of oregano, thyme, mint, and rosemary, in a large variety of dishes. Don’t forget to try Greek cheeses, in particular, feta. Meat has unique flavour because sheep and goats graze on open fields, and grazing meadows are verdant. Mediterranean seafood tastes much better than ocean seafood. The Aegean Sea and Ionian Sea, are clean seas, abundant in fish. Fresh fish fried on charcoal is a speciality.

The Greek attitude. Greeks religiously preserved the custom of gathering around the table to enjoy a meal or various appetisers, (mezecles), with ouzo. Having a meal with friends at home or at a restaurant or taverna is a deeply rooted social habit. The Greek word symposium, recalling the ancient origins of Greece, translated word for word means “drinking with company.” The atmosphere in typical Greek restaurants and tavernas is casual, relaxed and informal. Food is prepared according to fundamental rules. Good amateur cooks enjoy great respect in their social circle, while a good housewife in Greece means a good cook. A good cook sometimes dedicates days to the preparation of a meal for his friends.

The general atmosphere. Try a glass of ouzo or wine with fried octopus or any other Greek dish, sitting in the shade of a tree in a small taverna by the seafront, on an Aegean island. Try to repeat the experience in your home country, preparing the same dish, and helping yourself to the same drink. You may try it anywhere, but you will soon realise that the flavour is not the same. Don’t try again. Your palate has not changed, nor is there something lacking in your cooking skills. The Greek food-relishing experience, in particular the combination of the food and the place where it is served, are unique, and cannot be exported or imitated. It is simply something you can find, taste and enjoy only in Greece.

Greek Wine

Greece, the country of Dionysos, the god of wine, is the home of the first Vins de Qualite Produit Region (VQPRD) wines in history. The wines in question were from... the islands of Hios and Thasos, famous in antiquity. For a variety of historical and social reasons, and due to natural disasters, the art of wine-making declined from the mid-19th century to the early 1960’s. Then the traditional customs of wine-making revived. Today you can find a multitude of excellent Greek wines from every region of the country. When you taste Greek wine, bear in mind that it is the produce of excellent harvest, made from varieties of grape unknown to Western lovers of wine.

Greek wines are classified in the following four categories:

1) Controlled Appellation of Origin
2) Superior Quality Appellation of Origin
3) Local wine
4) Table wine

Controlled appellation of origin. Listed in the category are only sweet wines, such as the Mavrodaphne of Cephalonia and Patra, the Moschato of Patras, Limnos, Cephalonia and Rodos, and the Sweet wine of Samos.

Listed in the category of superior quality appellation of origin are some of the best wines of Greece. Some 20 locations have been designated appellation of origin. In Northern Greece are the appellations Zitsa, Amyntaio, Goumenisa and Naoussa. In Halkidiki is the appellation Playies Melitona. In Thessaly are the appellations Agialos and Rapsani. In the Athens area is the appellation of Kantza. In the Peloponnesse are the appellations of Patras, Mantinea, and Nemea. In the Ionian islands is the appellations Rombola Cephalinias. In the islands of Paros, Limnos, Rhodes, and Santorini are the appellations (Paros, Limnos, Rhodes and Santorini). In Crete are the appellations of origin, Arkanes, Peza, Siteia and Daphnes.

Finally the last two categories, i.e. the local and table wines, offer wine lovers pleasant, exhilarating flavours.

The Vineyard of Attica.
Attica is a traditional high quality wine producing region. The total area of Attica’s vineyards is 16,346 acres. The different varieties of grapes cultivated are: Savvatiano, Athiri, Bilana, white Moshatu, Roditis, Asurtiko, Robola, Alexadreia, Moshatu, Amvourgou Moshatu, Fileri, Malagouzia (Greek white wines), Mandilaria, Agiorgitiko (Greek red wines), Chardonnay, Sauvignon blanc, Ugni blanc, Semillon (Foreign white wines) and Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon, Carignan, Syrah, Tempranillo (foreign red wines). Also the area of Eastern Attica (Mesogeia) is well known for its Retsina, a popular wine which accompanies superbly the dishes of the Mediterranean cuisine.

For more information please address the Association of Attica’s vineyard wine producers. Tel. 210 6038019 website: www.enoaa.gr
Monday. In Athens the main Carnival festivities are held in Plaka.

Wine Feast: Organised by a multitude of municipalities.

Nautical Week: Celebrated in Phaliron.
